Candidates for Degrees are required to enter their Names before 12 noon on the day preceding the Degree Day at the Office of the Boards of Faculties, Clarendon Building (instead of 9 p.m., at the Vice-Chancellor's house, as heretofore).

No testamurs need be exhibited, except in the case of

- (a) Candidates for the Degree of Bachelor or Doctor of Music;
- (b) All Candidates for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts who matriculated previous to Michaelmas Term, 1887.

These two classes of Candidates must produce the usual testamurs to the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties at the time of entering their names at his Office (and not, as heretofore, to the Registrar on the Degree Day).

The grace of the College or Hall in case of Candidates for any Degree must be exhibited to the Registrar in the Apodyterium between 9.30 and 10 o'clock on the day of Congregation, unless it has been sent to him previously.

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.

5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.

"(e) An Affiliated Student shall be entitled to supplicate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts so soon as he shall have passed the Second Public Examination and kept statutorily residence for eight Terms, provided that he has obtained Honours either in the First or in the Second Public Examination.

"8. No Affiliated Student shall be permitted to present himself again for any examination which he has passed before his matriculation, and no examination passed before matriculation under the provisions of this section shall, in the case of any Student who does not claim the status of an Affiliated Student, be deemed to be one of the exercises required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

"9. The name of any Candidate from an Affiliated College who, not having been matriculated, and not being statutorily certified as desiring admission at a College or Hall or as a Non-Collegiate Student, desires to offer himself for examination either in Stated Subjects or in an Additional Subject or in the Greek language only in Responsions, shall be sent by the Officer of the Affiliated College to the Delegates, together with (1) a list of the books and subjects offered for examination, and (2) the appointed fee; and the Delegates shall transmit the names of the Candidate and of the Affiliated College together with the list of books and subjects and the fee to the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties. The Delegates shall register this Certificate, and shall issue a Certificate stating that the Candidate is entitled to the status of an Affiliated Student, and shall enter upon the Certificate the Term which, for the purposes of clause 7. (b), is to be reckoned as the Term in which the Candidate was matriculated, and any examination of the University for which his name has at any time been entered before the granting of the Certificate. The Candidate shall produce this Certificate to the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties on or before the giving in or transmitting of his name as a Candidate for examination after his matriculation, and shall at the same time pay to the University Chest, through the Secretary, the sum of five shillings. In case the Candidate, under the provisions of clause 6. (b), is admitted to any examination during the interval between the issue of the Certificate by the Delegates and his matriculation, the Delegates shall recall the Certificate which they have issued, and shall issue a new Certificate showing the examination for which the Candidate's name is entered.

"The Delegates shall communicate to the Secretary the issue by them of any Certificate under the provisions of this clause.

These Scholarships and Exhibitions are tenable during residence.

By the Statutes of the Colleges every Scholarship or Exhibition determines at the end of two years, unless the Governing Body of the College shall by resolution have declared themselves satisfied with the industry and good conduct of the Scholar or Exhibitioner, in which case the tenure is renewed for a further term of two years. At the end of this latter period the tenure may, in special cases and for special reasons, be extended for a further period of one year.

WADHAM COLLEGE.

In June, 1894, there will be an election to a Scholarship on the foundation of Dr. Hody, the examination for which will be in the Hebrew language and literature.

The value of the Scholarship is £80 a year, inclusive of rooms and of all allowances. It is tenable in the first instance for two years, but if the conduct and industry of the Scholar are satisfactory, this term will be prolonged to four years, and in certain special cases a fifth may be added.

An Exhibition of £30 or £40 a year, tenable on the same conditions as the Scholarship, but without limit of age, may be offered to any candidate who does well in the examination.

In the examination, which will begin on Tuesday, June 5, at 9.30 A.M., papers will be set in the following books:—

1. Exodus, i-xx.
2. Deuteronomy.
3. Psalms i-xl.

There will also be papers of composition in Hebrew, of passages for translation from unprepared books, and of questions in Hebrew grammar.

A knowledge of Biblical Aramaic or Syriac may have weight in the examination, but will not be allowed to compensate for deficiency in Hebrew. Candidates who desire to be examined in either of these languages are requested to inform the Warden at the time of sending in their names.

Candidates will have an opportunity of showing their knowledge of Greek and Latin, and they will be required in any case to satisfy the electors of their ability to pass the ordinary examinations of the University.

In case of there being no candidate of sufficient merit to be elected a Scholar, the Warden and Fellows have power to postpone the election, or, if they think fit, to award an Exhibition of smaller value than the Scholarship.

Candidates, who must not have exceeded twenty years of age on June 9, 1894, are requested to send their names to the Warden by letter, not later than May 31, and to call on him, with certificates of the date of their birth and testimonials of good conduct, on Tuesday, June 5, at 9.15 A.M.

KEBLE COLLEGE.

In addition to the Classical and Historical Scholarships already advertised (GAZETTE, No. 772, p. 515) there will be an election in this College on Tuesday, December 12, 1893, to

One NATURAL SCIENCE SCHOLARSHIP, on the Chafyn Grove Foundation, of the value of £60 per annum, with Laboratory fees not exceeding £20 per annum, tenable for four years.

The competition will be open to all persons not members of the University, and to such members of the University as are not of more than two Terms' standing from Matriculation. But no Candidate will be allowed to hold the Scholarship, unless he continue to read for the Honour Course, or when out of residence, except by permission of the College. By the terms of the benefaction the Scholarship is tenable only by members of the Church of England.

Candidates will be eligible who have not exceeded the age of twenty years on December 12, 1893.

Candidates who may distinguish themselves in any branch of the examination, besides the Scholar, will be offered admission, as Commoners, without being required to pass the ordinary Matriculation Examination.

Pass papers of the Responsions standards will be set in Classics and Mathematics, except in the case of those who have already passed Responsions or some examination excusing them from Responsions.

An English Essay and questions in Divinity will be set to all Candidates.

The Examination will consist of papers and practical work in Biology and Chemistry. Candidates will be examined in only one of these subjects. A paper in Elementary Mechanics and Physics will be set to all Candidates, and a paper in Elementary Chemistry to those Candidates who offer Biology.

Any enquiries about this Examination may be addressed to Mr. W. Hatchett Jackson, Keble College.

The Examination will commence on Thursday, December 7, at 9.30 A.M., and Candidates are requested to call on the Warden on December 6, between 5 and 7 or 9 and 10 P.M., with testimonials of character, and certificates of the date of their birth and baptism.

The necessary College expenses, against which the amount of the Scholarships is to be set, are £82 per annum. This payment includes board, lodging, rent of furnished rooms, tuition, University and College dues. The only necessary extras are light in the rooms, washing, and University fees. There are no payments for Caution Money or Valuation.

During the Examination arrangements will be made to board and lodge in the College for the sum of 25s. any Candidate who may wish it, and who shall have signified his wish by letter to the Bursar on or before December 5.

NOVEMBER 7.

In a meeting of CONVOCATION, to be followed by a meeting of the CONGREGATION OF THE UNIVERSITY, to be holden on Tuesday, November 7, at Two o'clock, the following business will be presented to the respective Houses.

H. BOYD,
Vice-Chancellor.
DELEGATES' ROOM,
October 30, 1893.

I. CONVOCATION.

1. Honorary Degree.

Whereas the Hebdomadal Council resolved on June 9, 1879, to propose to Convocation to confer the degree of D.C.L. honoris causa, upon JOHN RUSKIN, M.A., of Christ Church, at the Encænica of that year, but the proposal, though notified in the GAZETTE of June 10, was not submitted to vote owing to the inability of Mr. RUSKIN to be present at the Encænica:—

It will be proposed to constitute JOHN RUSKIN, M.A., Hon. Student of Christ Church, and Hon. Fellow of Corpus Christi College, Doctor of Civil Law, honoris causa, and to dispense with his attendance in the House for admission to the degree with the customary formalities, any usage or precedent notwithstanding.

2. Affixing of Seal.

It will be proposed to affix the University Seal to the Lease of the Elmley Cement Works, in the County of Kent, to Messrs. BURGE & HANLEY.

3. Decree.

The following form of Decree will be proposed:—

That the Ven. WILLIAM BREE, M.A., Merton College, Archdeacon of Coventry, be permitted to proceed to the degrees of B.D. and D.D. by accumulation.

4. Presentation of Report.

The following Report of the Delegacy for the Training of Teachers for the year 1892-93 will be presented to the House:—

This Delegacy now presents its first Report to Convocation. It was constituted in the Hilary Term of 1892, in order to enable the University to co-operate with the Education Department in making arrangements under the provisions of the Code of 1892 for the training of persons who have been elected to Queen's Scholarships, and intend to become teachers in Primary Schools, and who at the same time desire to obtain a University education. It has been the duty of the Delegacy to nominate such officers and to provide such instruction as are required to constitute what is termed a Day Training College. The Rector of Exeter College was appointed to act as Director of the Day Training College; the Censor of Non-Collegiate Students as Tutor and Secretary; Mr. J. W. Horne, the Headmaster of the Primary Schools in St. Barnabas Parish, as Master of Method; and Mr. W. L. Morgan, M.A., as Medical Officer. Persons admitted as Students of the Day Training College are required to matriculate as members of a College or Hall, or as Non-Collegiate Students. They have not only to fulfil the conditions prescribed by the Education Department, but also to satisfy the Delegacy that they are of good character, and are qualified by intellectual attainment to pursue their University studies. Regulations have been framed by the Delegacy with that object.

In October 1892 one student entered the University as a member of the Day Training College. He passed Responsions in March 1893, and has also passed the examinations prescribed by the Education Department. The delay in framing the Statute constituting the Delegacy rendered it impossible for candidates in the Queen's Scholarship Examination of 1892 to enter their names for that examination as candidates for admission into the Day Training College. But many enquiries have been received during the year last past, and some of the candidates in the Queen's Scholarship Examination of 1893 are also candidates for admission into the Day Training College in Michaelmas Term. It is the desire of the Delegacy in admitting students to the College to take every precaution that they shall reach a high standard both of intellectual attainment, and of practical efficiency.

5. Presentation of Report.

The following Report of the Visitors of the University Observatory for 1892 will be presented to the House:—

The Visitors, having received the following Report from the Radcliffe Observer (in temporary charge of the University Observatory) and approved the same, present it to Convocation as their Report on the University Observatory for the year 1892:—

(The period embraced by this Report is from June 8, 1892, to June 30, 1893.)

Lectures.—During the past year 23 students attended the lectures given by Professor Pritchard, or received practical instruction at night with the instruments. The Observatory was also visited by many of the Extension Students last August. A considerable number of examination papers sent from the centres of Extension Lectures were examined by Professor Pritchard.

Instruments.—The 12 $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch Refractor and 13-inch Photo-Telescope are in perfect working order, and have not required any repairs throughout the year.

It is difficult to move the large dome when it is in certain positions, which are frequently required; and this, besides increasing the manual labour of the Observer, considerably interferes with the work. The difficulty arises from the wearing away of the wooden beams on which the revolving wheel works. A cogged wheel and rack-work similar to that in the De La Rue dome—which can be revolved in less than one minute—is desirable.

The De La Rue 13-inch Reflector and Barclay Transit-Circle are in efficient order. The system of lighting the microscopes by means of electricity—which system required the lighting of four lamps simultaneously—was found to be rather troublesome, needing frequent attention. An alteration was made at the end of last May, so that the light for any one of the five lamps can be switched on at will, and many more hours' use can now be got out of the battery when only three cells are used instead of six cells, as formerly.

The Simms' Altazimuth and the old Transit Instrument are now mounted in the new wooden observatory.

One of the 15-inch mirrors, silver on glass, made by With, presented to the Observatory some years ago by Dr. Warren De La Rue, has been mounted in a wrought-iron tube supported by a cast-iron pedestal, made by Messrs. Lucy and Co., Oxford.

Buildings.—During last August and September a wooden building was erected on the ground at the north-west corner of the Lecture Room. This building, which has been found to be of considerable use, is divided into two rooms; one containing the instruments for students to practise with, viz. the old 4 $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch Transit Instrument, the Simms' Altazimuth, the 15-inch mirror, a 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch Refractor, complete, and a 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch portable Transit Instrument, the last two belonging to Professor Pritchard; and the other room, warmed by hot-water pipes, used by the Professor, also for keeping maps, books, &c., required at night. Two sliding roofs cover the instruments, and either of these can be moved off, over the room at the end, as required. The system of papering the roof of the interior is, however, defective, because no allowance has been made for the necessary expansion of the metal roof in hot weather, and the roof will require attention before there are any heavy snow-storms.

The two domes were painted with two coats of thick paint by Mullis and a labourer last August.

During the cold weather of last winter the boiler of the heating apparatus leaked so that no fire could be lit: the building could not be warmed for ten days or a fortnight. On removing the brick-work the boiler was found to have several holes in it, and to be worn thin by use. It was patched with iron plates and was used during the remainder of the winter; but it was thought by Professor Pritchard that a new one ought to be obtained and fitted before the next winter. An estimate for a new boiler has been obtained from Messrs. Haden and Son; this estimate (£39) includes everything except bricklayer's work.

Astronomical work.—The general work of the Observatory has remained unchanged during the past year.

Last summer the fourth part of the Oxford University Observatory publications, containing the results of the parallax of thirty stars, chiefly of the second magnitude, from measures of photographs taken with the De La Rue 13-inch Reflector between the years 1888 and 1892, was printed and published by the Clarendon Press: about sixty-five copies were presented to Observatories and Astronomers in exchange for their publications.

The Grubb Photographic Telescope has been in constant use throughout the year.

The work done with it has been of three kinds.

1. It has been employed in photographing the zone $+25^{\circ}$ to $+29^{\circ}$ (inclusive) in connection with the Photographic Survey of the heavens. The number of plates taken in this zone is 252, all catalogue plates; of this number 111 plates have been taken in zone $+25^{\circ}$, and eighty-two in zone $+26^{\circ}$, the remainder being in zones $+27^{\circ}$ to $+29^{\circ}$: attention has been directed to make the zones $+25^{\circ}$ and $+26^{\circ}$ complete, before proceeding with the other zones. Continuous work under this scheme cannot be said to have commenced until August, 1892, the plates taken before this date having been either of a preliminary character, or for other purposes. Owing to the unusual amount of cloud and general unsuitable state of the sky for photographic purposes, very few catalogue plates were taken from the end of September until the end of February.

2. On thirty-seven nights between August and February the Pleiades group was photographed, seventy plates being secured.

3. It was also used for miscellaneous purposes, such as photographs of the Moon, special groups of stars, &c. The adjustments of the instruments in the Students' Observatory and the devotion of the few fine nights in the October Term to students occupied much of the assistants' time.

All the plates are numbered consecutively as exposed, and are arranged in order in boxes for reference. These plates have not yet been critically examined to ascertain which of them are good enough for measurement. From a cursory examination of them as developed it is believed that the percentage of plates for catalogue purposes which, for all causes, may have to be rejected will be small, less than 10 per cent.

An attempt was made to determine the parallax of the Pleiades group from the measurements of the plates in Right Ascension and Declination taken with the new Photo-Telescope, but it was decided to postpone that subject and first obtain a catalogue of all stars, probably down to the 11.5 magnitude, photographed on the plates with six minutes' exposure. All stars within a radius of $40'$ from Alcyone, the centre of the plate, have been measured on two plates, and all stars down to the ninth magnitude have been measured on two other plates; some stars on a fifth plate have also been measured.

The means of these measures and computation of final Right Ascensions and Declinations have been completed for two plates, and the computations of refractions, aberrations, &c., for two other plates have been commenced. This work was proceeding at the time of Professor Pritchard's death.

It may be worthy of mention that this is the first discussion, except for magnitude or preliminary investigations, that has been undertaken with the plates taken with the new Object Glass, and the results were considered by Professor Pritchard to be of a very satisfactory character.

The Barclay Circle has been used on most fine nights either for determining time for the Observatory or for practical work by the students; but it is unsymmetrically mounted with respect to the shutter-openings.

Library.—Several books have been presented to the Library, many of them in exchange for the Observatory publications. Among the gifts were a set of Bode's Star Maps, presented by Sir W. Herschel, and volumes from the Vatican and Potsdam Observatories. A negative of the Moon was also presented by the Lick Observatory Trustees.

Personal.—Professor Pritchard died on May 28, 1893. Mr. W. E. Plummer left the Observatory at the end of September, 1892, on his appointment to the superintendence of the Liverpool Observatory. Mr. C. A. Jenkins left the Observatory on April 7, 1893. Mr. F. A. Bellamy, previously at the Radcliffe Observatory, was appointed an assistant by Professor Pritchard and entered on his duties on September 1, 1892. Mr. F. W. A. Bennett has been working at the Observatory since the beginning of March, 1893.

Finance.—On June 8, 1892, there was a balance against the Observatory of £36 18s. 6d.; the bills authorized by the Visitors amounted to £75 16s. 6d.; the salaries of the assistants to June 8, 1893, were £408 6s. 8d.; the wages of the attendant, £74 4s.; water rate, £2 2s., leaving a balance of £2 12s. 4d. in favour of the Observatory out of the yearly allowance of £600 received from the University Chest.

This Report was presented by the Radcliffe Observer and adopted by the Visitors, October 30, 1893.

Vice-Chancellor.

Candidates for Degrees are required to enter their Names before 12 noon on the day preceding the Degree Day at the Office of the Boards of Faculties, Clarendon Building (instead of 9 p.m., at the Vice-Chancellor's house, as heretofore).

A Candidate who fails to do this can enter his name on a supplementary list up to 6 P.M. on the same day on payment of an extra fee of one guinea; in case, however, the failure is due to the Candidate only having become qualified for his Degree by passing an Examination on the day itself, the extra fee is not required.

No testamurs need be exhibited, except in the case of

- (a) Candidates for the Degree of Bachelor or Doctor of Music;
- (b) All Candidates for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts who matriculated previous to Michaelmas Term, 1887.

These two classes of Candidates must produce the usual testamurs to the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties at the time of entering their names at his Office (and not, as heretofore, to the Registrar on the Degree Day).

Notice is hereby given, that the Examination for the Taylorian Scholarships will be held in the Taylor Institution on Thursday, November 30, and the following days.

At the same time there will be held the Examination for the Prize for proficiency in the Russian Language and Literature, which was announced in March, 1892.

The Scholarships and the Prize are open to all members of the University who have not exceeded the twenty-third Term from their Matriculation.

The subject-matter of the examination will be for one Scholarship the German Language and Literature, and for the other Scholarship the Italian Language and Literature, according to the terms of the notice issued on May 9, 1891, copies of which, as well as of that relating to the Russian Prize, may be had on application at the Lodge of the Taylor Institution.

Candidates for the German Scholarship are requested to call on Mr. Poole, at the Taylor Institution, on Monday, November 27, between 4 and 5 P.M.

Candidates for the Italian Scholarship are requested to call on the Rev. E. Purcell, at 17 Magdalen Street, on Monday, November 27, between 1 and 2 P.M.

Candidates for the Russian Prize are requested to call on Mr. Morfill, at the Taylor Institution, on Monday, November 27, between 12 and 1 P.M.

The attention of Candidates is called to the following notice, which was issued by the Curators in June, 1892—

1. The Curators of the Taylorian Institution will provide, in combination with the annual Examination for Scholarships, a more general Examination in the same languages as those in which the Scholarships are offered.

2. Certificates will be given under the signatures of the Examiners of two kinds:—(a) "with distinction," for Candidates who under the present system of Scholarship Examinations would obtain "honourable mention;" (b) an ordinary Certificate, for those who show a creditable knowledge of the language and subjects.

3. The Examination will be the same as that for the Scholarships, but Candidates for Certificates only will not be required to do the Papers which relate to the specially prepared Books or periods. Questions of a more elementary character, intended specially for Candidates for Certificates only, will be set (1) in Grammar and Philology, (2) in Literature. Certificates, however, can be obtained also by Candidates for the Scholarships on the Papers set for the Scholarships.

4. There will be a viva voce Examination for Candidates for the Certificates.

5. The limit for standing will be the same as that for Candidates for the Scholarships, viz. not exceeding the twenty-third Term from Matriculation.

6. The first Examination for Certificates will be held in December, 1892, in the French and Spanish languages. In December, 1893, the Examination will be in the German and Italian languages, and so on afterwards in alternate years.

Candidates are requested to call upon the Senior Tutor between 8 and 9 P.M., on Wednesday, December 6, bringing with them certificates of age and character. They must be under nineteen years of age on the day of election.

Candidates who, though not elected, do well in the papers may matriculate without further examination, and will have preference for rooms in College on coming into residence. After a year's residence, they are eligible for the Casberd Scholarships, which are of the value of £80 annually, and for Casberd Exhibitions.

Any further information may be obtained from the Senior Tutor.

3. Memorials to Council.

The following Memorials, addressed to the Council, have been duly received, and have been referred to Committees for consideration :—

(1)

To the Hebdomadal Council.

We the undersigned Demonstrators in the Departments of Natural Science, hearing that the position of Demonstrators has recently been under discussion in the Hebdomadal Council, desire to call the attention of the Council to our present unsatisfactory position.

We wish to point out—

(1) That the University teaching of Natural Science and the management of the Laboratories are largely carried out by Demonstrators, upon whom a great part of the lecturing and of the individual tuition devolve, and who thus perform duties analogous to those performed by the College Tutors in other subjects.

(2) That in case of the illness or absence of the Professor in any Department the Demonstrators are the only teachers; and that thus the entire teaching in that Department may be, and frequently is, in their hands.

(3) That the work of Demonstrators is of such a kind as can only be done efficiently by men of scientific standing and experience, prepared to devote an important part of their lives to their work, and to remain in Oxford for a considerable number of years; and that frequent changes in the staff of Demonstrators must necessarily tend to interfere very seriously with the efficiency and continuity of the teaching.

(4) That, with the exception of the two Aldrichian Demonstratorships, the office of Demonstrator is not definitely recognised by the University; that a Demonstrator who performs his duties efficiently has no reasonable security of tenure, but is liable, whether in consequence of a change of Professor, or from other causes, to summary dismissal; and that in these respects the position of Demonstrators in Oxford compares unfavourably with that of corresponding teachers in Cambridge and other Universities.

We therefore respectfully request the Hebdomadal Council to hold an enquiry in regard to the security of our tenure, and the recognition of our duties and responsibilities as teachers, and to take such steps as may seem desirable towards rendering our position more consistent with the importance of the work required of us.

We beg to suggest that the appointment of a Demonstrator should be a University Act, and that he should not be liable to summary dismissal except with the consent of the Visitation Board. We further suggest that Demonstrators should be afforded an opportunity of laying evidence before a Committee of the Hebdomadal Council, should the Council see fit to appoint such a Committee.

Memorial in favour of a Scheme for providing a Research Degree in Oxford.

General Object.

To provide that in certain cases the ordinary Degree of B.A. may be granted to persons who have not passed the qualifying Examinations. This privilege to be granted only to students who shall have carried on research in Oxford, and whose work shall have been tested and approved in the manner prescribed below.

All such students must have been duly matriculated and must have kept at least eight terms' residence in the University.

Matriculation.

Any person desirous of qualifying for the B.A. Degree under this Scheme must make a formal application to the Board of Faculty dealing with the branch of study which he wishes to pursue.

It shall be the duty of the Board of Faculty to satisfy themselves that he is qualified by attainments and character to undertake the work of research to which he proposes to devote himself; and that the work in question is of sufficient importance and value.

If satisfied on these points the Board shall give the student a formal certificate to the effect that he is in their judgment a fit person to be matriculated under the provisions of this Scheme.

Residence.

Such students shall be required to keep at least eight terms' residence.

They shall also be required to satisfy the Board of Faculty from time to time of their industry and of their progress in their work.

They shall also produce when required evidence of good conduct from the Head of the College or Hall to which they belong, or from the Censor of Non-Collegiate Students.

The B.A. Degree.

Such students shall be permitted to supplicate for the B.A. Degree under the following conditions:—

- (1) They must produce evidence, that they have kept the necessary terms of residence, that they have paid all statutable fees and dues, and that they have the permission of their College or Hall, or of the Censor of Non-Collegiate Students.
- (2) They must produce a certificate from the Board of Faculty, to the effect that their work has been such as to entitle them to a Degree.

For the purposes of this certificate, the student shall submit to the Board a detailed statement of the work he has done.

Such statements, if approved by the Board, shall be printed and published by the University.

The M.A. Degree.

Students who shall have obtained the B.A. Degree under these conditions, shall be entitled to proceed to the M.A. Degree in the ordinary way.

The undersigned are in favour of the principles set forth in this Scheme, and petition Council to bring the subject before the University.

4. Consideration of Reports.

The Council has resumed the consideration of the following Reports in the matter of the Study of English Language and Literature:—

Proceedings of the Committee of Council on the Study of English Language and Literature.

Original Committee:—PROVOST OF QUEEN'S, DR. INCE, PRESIDENT OF CORPUS, PRINCIPAL OF ST. EDMUND HALL, DEAN OF CHRIST CHURCH, PROFESSOR CASE, MR. GROSE, MR. MACAN. [On June 6, after the presentation of the first Report, the SENIOR PROCTOR and MR. WAKEMAN were added to the Committee in place of the PROVOST OF QUEEN'S and MR. GROSE, resigned, and on November 21, MR. HASSALL was appointed in place of MR. WAKEMAN, who had ceased to be a member of Council.]

REPORT.

February 7, 1893.

The Committee appointed on March 14, 1892, "to consider the provision at present made by the University for the study of the English Language and Literature with a view to its improvement," began their work by drawing up a series of questions asking for the opinions of experts on this subject. They received in reply communications from the Provost of Oriel, Professors Palgrave, Earle, Skeat, Nettleship, and Napier, Dr. Wright, Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Courthope, Mr. Firth, Mr. W. P. Ker, Mr. R. G. Moulton, and Mr. York Powell.

On May 26, the Committee made their first report to Council. They reported (1) that they were not in favour of a distinct examination in the English Language and Literature, to form one of the Honour Schools of the Second Public Examination. (2) That they were in favour of the establishment of one or more University Scholarships, open to candidates up to their twenty-fourth Term at least, with the award of certificates of (a) excellence and (b) competence to meritorious unsuccessful candidates, whose names should be published. (3) That they were in favour of the further introduction of English literary subjects into the Modern History School. (4) That they were not in favour of the further introduction of subjects connected with English Language and Literature, into either Classical Moderations or the Final School of Literæ Humaniores.

These recommendations were adopted by Council on June 6, and were referred back to the Committee with instructions to lay before the Board of Faculty of Modern History the third recommendation.

In pursuance of this instruction, the Committee on November 4 had an interview with three representatives, who had been deputed by the Board of Faculty to hold a conference with them. The Committee gathered from these gentlemen that there was much unwillingness on the part of the leading teachers in Modern History to admit English literary subjects to a more recognised place in the curriculum of study, either by way of addition to or substitution for subjects at present prescribed. There seemed to be an opinion that the historical subjects could not be diminished in amount without sacrificing the scientific completeness of the School, and that the English subjects, if introduced, would have no adequate weight in the distribution of Honours.

The Committee further asked the Curators of the Taylor Institution whether under the provisions of clause 13 of their Regulations they could see their way to the establishment of one or more Scholarships to be awarded annually, or in alternate years, for the encouragement of the studies of English Language and Literature. On November 17 the Taylor Curators replied that while they did not deny that the establishment of a Scholarship for English might be desirable, they were of opinion that the funds of the Taylor Institution cannot, with due regard to the objects of the foundation, be devoted to this purpose.

The Committee, after conferring with the representatives of the Modern History School and ascertaining their views, cannot recommend the further introduction of English literary subjects into the Modern History School, but they are prepared to recommend that one or more annual Scholarships should, if possible, be founded out of the funds of the Taylor Institution, or if this arrangement be not found feasible, out of other funds at the disposal of the University. Perhaps it might be wise to found these Scholarships, in the first instance, for a term of years only.

Report on Sir R. Taylor's Will.

In 1788 Sir Robert Taylor by his will directed that the residue of his personal estate should be held, subject to certain life interests, for the purposes to be declared by a codicil. The codicil in question, containing his bequest to the University, was not duly executed; it was disputed by Michael Angelo Taylor, but, after litigation, the Court of Delegates admitted it to probate.

In 1834 M. A. Taylor, in making his will, maintained his objection to the "pretended codicil," but, desiring to carry out his father's intention, he bequeathed £50,000 to the University, on condition that the claim on his father's estate should be abandoned. He directed that the money should be held by the Dean of Christ Church, the President of St. John's and others as Trustees, and that Scholarships should be founded according to a Plan approved by Lord Grenville and certain Heads of Houses. The Scholarships were to be awarded for Classics and Mathematics, and the holders were to obtain certificates of proficiency in German, Italian, or Spanish.

So far as I can ascertain, the trusts of M. A. Taylor's will were not accepted, and the Plan was never carried out. I infer that the University refused his bequest and stood to its rights under Sir R. Taylor's codicil. The sum which came to the University seems to have been considerably more than £50,000.

If my inferences are correct, we are sent back to Sir R. Taylor's will to ascertain the nature of the Foundation. There seems to be no copy of the codicil itself in Oxford, but it is quoted at length in the extract from M. A. Taylor's will which is preserved in the Archives. The important words for our present purpose are these:—

"And for establishing a Foundation for the teaching and improving the European languages in such manner as shall from time to time be approved of by the Vice-Chancellor and Scholars and Convocation assembled."

The question is not free from doubt, but I am of opinion that by "the European languages" Sir R. Taylor meant the modern languages of continental Europe. In any case it would not be prudent to apply any part of this fund in promoting the study of the English language and literature without taking the opinion of Sir Horace Davey.

THOMAS RALEIGH.

Report of the Committee on the Study of the English Language and Literature.

May 2, 1893.

Present—Dr. INCE (Chairman), PRESIDENT OF CORPUS, PRINCIPAL OF ST. EDMUND HALL, Professor CASE, SENIOR PROCTOR, Mr. MACAN.

The Committee recommend the drafting of a Statute embodying the following recommendations:

There shall be one University Scholarship for the promotion of the study of the English Language and Literature of the annual value of £30, tenable for one year.

No one shall be admitted as a candidate for this Scholarship before the twelfth or after the twenty-sixth term from his matriculation.

There shall be a Board of Management, who shall perform all the duties entrusted to them in this Statute, which Board shall consist of the Vice-Chancellor, the two Proctors, the Regius Professor of Modern History, the Professor of Poetry, the Rawlinsonian Professor of Anglo-Saxon, and the Merton Professor of English Language and Literature.

There shall be three Examiners appointed annually by the Board. The Board of Management, in conjunction with the Examiners, shall from time to time determine the lists of subjects and of books (if any) in which the candidates shall be examined, and shall give notice of the date fixed for the Examination.

On announcing the award of the Scholarship the Examiners shall append lists arranged alphabetically of such candidates as have passed the Examination with distinction and with credit respectively [and issue certificates of such proficiency?].

Each Examiner shall receive the sum of £10 for his services.

The Curators of the University Chest are authorised to pay the stipend of the Scholar and the remuneration of the Examiners and the necessary expenses of the Examination out of the moneys received by them.

This Statute shall be limited in its operation to five Examinations [to five years from the date of the first Examination for the Scholarship?].

2. Affixing of Seal.

It will be proposed to affix the University Seal to the following Memorial :—

To the Right Honourable WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE, Member of Parliament, First Lord of the Treasury, &c., &c.

The Memorial of the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, sheweth—

That during the late and present Sessions of Parliament Bills have been prepared and laid before the House of Commons for giving to certain bodies great powers with reference to the provision, organisation, and control of Secondary Education within the kingdom.

That on the tenth and eleventh of October last past a Conference was held in Oxford, which was attended by representatives from a large number of the chief Educational Bodies in England.

That in the proceedings of this Conference it appeared that great diversity of opinion, much imperfect knowledge, and some confusion and perplexity existed with reference to the matters incident to such organisation of Secondary Education as was contemplated in the aforesaid Bills.

That in view of the far-reaching importance of this subject it is desirable that no settlement of the matters at issue be made save with fuller consideration of the subject, in detail and in general, with more exact knowledge, and with greater concurrence of opinion.

That your Memorialists accordingly desire that before any legislation on the subject is proposed a Commission be appointed under the authority either of Her Majesty the Queen or of the High Court of Parliament to inquire into the present state of Secondary Education within the kingdom, the further needs of Her Majesty's subjects in this respect, and the best means whereby those needs may be met.

In witness whereof your Memorialists have affixed their Common Seal to this Memorial in their House of Convocation on the fourteenth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

(For Qualifications see below.)

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.
6. Assured Members have therefore absolute security, with the prospect of the continuance of a high rate of Bonus.

I. University Acts.

I. HEBDOMADAL COUNCIL.

1. Further Revision of the Register of Congregation.

At a meeting of the Hebdomadal Council holden on Monday, November 13, the Register of Congregation was further revised, and the name of the following person, duly qualified by residence, was inserted:—

DYER, LOUIS, M.A., Balliol College.

2. Appointment of Members of Governing Bodies.

At the same meeting the following appointments were made:—

1. THOMAS HODGKIN, Hon. D.C.L., was re-appointed a Governor of the Royal Grammar School, Newcastle-on-Tyne.
2. ARTHUR M. BERNARD, M.A., Trinity College, was appointed a Governor of Ipswich School.
3. The PRESIDENT OF MAGDALEN COLLEGE was re-appointed a Governor of the University College, Bristol.

3. Election of Delegate of Local Examinations.

At the same meeting the WARDEN OF KEBLE COLLEGE was elected a Delegate of Local Examinations, in place of the Rev. W. Ince, D.D., Canon of Christ Church, resigned.

4. Sanatorium for the University.

The Council resolved to resume the consideration of the subject of a University Sanatorium, and referred the matter to the following Committee:—

The PRESIDENT OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, the PROVOST OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE, the WARDEN OF KEBLE COLLEGE, Professor PELHAM, Mr. TURNER, Mr. ROBINSON, Mr. PHELPS, and the SENIOR PROCTOR.

II. CONVOCATION.

In a CONVOCATION holden on Tuesday, November 14, the following business was submitted to the House:—

1. Affixing of Seal.

It was resolved (nemine contradicente) to affix the University Seal to the following Memorial:—

To the Right Honourable WILLIAM EWART GLADSTONE, Member of Parliament, First Lord of the Treasury, &c., &c.

The Memorial of the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, sheweth—

That during the late and present Sessions of Parliament Bills have been prepared and laid before the House of Commons for giving to certain bodies great powers with reference to the provision, organisation, and control of Secondary Education within the kingdom.

That on the tenth and eleventh of October last past a Conference was held in Oxford, which was attended by representatives from a large number of the chief Educational Bodies in England.

That in the proceedings of this Conference it appeared that great diversity of opinion, much imperfect knowledge, and some confusion and perplexity existed with reference to the matters incident to such organisation of Secondary Education as was contemplated in the aforesaid Bills.

That in view of the far-reaching importance of this subject it is desirable that no settlement of the matters at issue be made save with fuller consideration of the subject, in detail and in general, with more exact knowledge, and with greater concurrence of opinion.

That your Memorialists accordingly desire that before any legislation on the subject is proposed a Commission be appointed under the authority either of Her Majesty the Queen or of the High Court of Parliament to inquire into the present state of Secondary Education within the kingdom, the further needs of Her Majesty's subjects in this respect, and the best means whereby those needs may be met.

In witness whereof your Memorialists have affixed their Common Seal to this Memorial in their House of Convocation on the fourteenth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three.

2. Decrees.

The following forms of Decree were proposed:—

(1)

That JAMES S. LOCKHART, M.A., Fellow of Hertford College, having been nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors to be a Delegate for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, that such nomination be confirmed by Decree of Convocation, and that he be included in the number of twelve members of Convocation referred to in Statt. Tit. VIII. Sect. II.

That for purposes of residence, Thursday, January 11, Friday, January 12, Saturday, January 13, and Sunday, January 14, 1894, be reckoned as days falling within Hilary Term.

[Carried: nemine contradicente.]

BOARD OF THE FACULTY OF MEDICINE.

NOTICE.

The Board of the Faculty of Medicine desires to draw the attention of Members of the University entering on the study of Medicine in Oxford, to the desirability of their registering themselves as Students of Medicine at the earliest possible date, on account of the Recommendations passed by the General Medical Council on May 29, 1893.

1. "Every Medical Student shall at the commencement of his studentship be registered in the manner and under the conditions prescribed by the standing Resolutions of the Council."

2. "The period of professional study between the date of registration as a Medical Student and the date of the Final Examination for any Diploma which entitles its holder to be registered under the Medical Acts, shall be a period of bona fide study during not less than five years."

Although the University requires no evidence of registration as a Medical Student, nor of five years having been passed in Medical study from its members presenting themselves for the Final Examination for the Bachelor of Medicine degree, such evidence is required by the Examining Board in England before admitting Candidates to its Final Examination.

Members of the University who have passed Responsions, and are certified by a recognised College or University teacher to have entered on Medical study, can be placed on the Students' Register by applying either personally or by letter, containing the necessary evidence of having complied with the above conditions, to the Registrar at the Office of the General Medical Council, 299 Oxford Street, London, W.

Note.—The commencement of the study of Physics, Chemistry or Biology, for the preliminary Examination in the Natural Science School, is accepted as evidence of Medical study.

The Delegates shall register this Certificate, and shall issue a Certificate stating that the Candidate is entitled to the status of an Affiliated Student, and shall enter upon the Certificate the Term which, for the purposes of clause 7. 3. Approval of Curator of the Taylor Institution.

The name of PAUL F. WILLERT, M.A., Fellow of Exeter College, who has been nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors to be a Curator of the Taylor Institution, will be submitted to the House.

4. Decrees.

The following forms of Decree will be proposed:—
(1)

That for the year 1893, in addition to the Auditor appointed by the Hebdomadal Council, two members of Convocation be appointed by Convocation to act in conjunction with him in the Audit of the University Accounts, under the provisions of Statt. Tit. XIX. § 7, and that there be assigned to them an honorarium of ten guineas each.

. If this decree is approved by the House, the election will be holden on Tuesday, December 5, at Two o'clock.

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorised to restore the Statues on the Spire of St. Mary's Church in accordance generally with Mr. Jackson's Report, dated November 13, 1893.

Note.—The Report referred to is printed below. It should be read in connexion with a former Report on the Statues printed on p. 447 of the GAZETTE of May 4, 1893. Mr. Jackson estimates that the cost of each statue will be about £80. (See GAZETTE of May 4, 1893, p. 438.)

Mr. Jackson has been appointed architect for the repair of the Spire by the Delegacy which was elected under a decree of Convocation approved on June 6, 1893.

The decree of June 6, 1893, which authorised the Curators of the University Chest to carry out the repairs of the Spire, did not provide for the Statues. So the question of restoring the Statues is now submitted to Convocation in the present form of Decree.

The following is the Report referred to above:—

LONDON.

November 13, 1893.

St. Mary the Virgin's Church, Oxford.

GENTLEMEN,

I have to report to you that good progress has been made during the Summer and Autumn with the repair of the pinnacles. The south-west pinnacle, which was taken in hand first, is now completed so far as the masonry is concerned, up to the level to which the present contract takes it, and the carvers are at work on it. The north-west and north-east pinnacles are well advanced, and the mason's work will soon be completed if the weather remains open. The carving will of course take a considerable time longer.

The Clipsham stone that is being used is of excellent quality, and is perhaps the hardest that I have ever seen. It all comes from one quarry which I specially selected for the purpose. The great size of the stones secures a perfect system of bonding, and though their weight adds to the labour of hoisting, I do not consider that this somewhat unusual way of constructing adds appreciably to the expense.

We are now about to begin upon the south-east pinnacle, which is rather less decayed than the others, and of which perhaps rather more can be saved. In this, as in the other cases, I shall carefully mark every stone that must be removed and replaced by new.

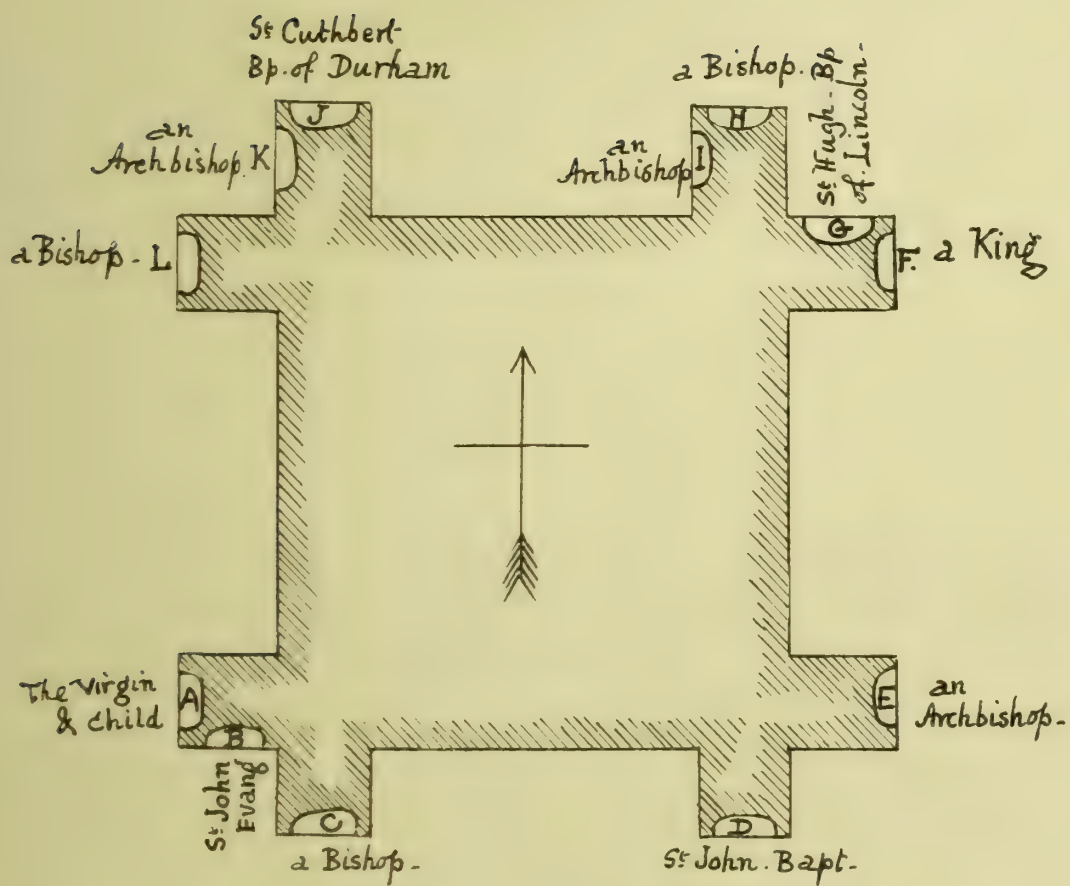

The matter of the statues is now the most pressing. The ten statues of the three pinnacle groups now in course of repair were necessarily removed during the works, to allow of the reconstruction of the masonry behind and below them. Two statues, D, E (see lithographed Plate VI opposite, taken from my Report of April 8, 1893), are still in their places, but D will now be lowered, and placed with the other ten in the old Convocation House. The remaining statue E may, I hope, be left where it is, with proper protection during the work.

On removing the back of the canopies it was for the first time possible to discover the method in which the figures were secured to the back of the niches. Each of them had a slight iron bar fixed across the hollow interior of the figure, the ends being leaded into the back of the shoulders. Over this bar came a hook, which was fixed to the masonry behind the figure. The iron of both hook and bar was in most cases quite rusted away, and could be broken with the fingers. Consequently the figures had no real attachment to the tower at all, but merely stood by their own weight. Considering that many of them are cracked down to the foot, it is clear that the statues were extremely insecure, and indeed it is somewhat wonderful that no accident has occurred with them.

In my Report of April 8 last, I summarized the examination I had then made of the state of the statues before removal as follows:—

"Six of the old statues (viz. A, B, F, H, I, L) are in such a state that there is little or no hope of saving them. Two others (viz. J, K) may possibly be repaired and saved; and the remaining two (viz. E, G) are, I believe, in a state to be preserved without risk. The other two statues (C, D), making up the twelve, are modern works, and their loss is of less consequence: they are both in too bad a state to be kept."

Now that all of the statues except D and E are on the ground, and can be examined on all sides, I am sorry to say their state is worse than I expected. Of the two of which I had faint hopes, J and K, representing St. Cuthbert and an Archbishop, I am sorry to say I have now no hope at all. The statue of St. Cuthbert has two serious shakes in the upright beds on the proper right, and there is an open fissure which threatens to bring off the face in the same way in which most of the other statues have suffered. Indeed, I am not quite sure that the face has not been off already, and been stuck on again. The other statue, K, had been extensively pieced on both sides, and had an old patch in the middle. The consequence was that, on the attempt being made to lift it, it fell into two halves—there being scarcely any solid stone to hold it together.

Of the other two about which I was more hopeful, that of St. Hugh (G) is so badly cracked in the lower part on both sides, that it will be unsafe to refix it. The other, E, is in better condition, and as the pinnacle behind is also less decayed than the rest, I hope to avoid the necessity of removing it at all.

This is, however, the only one of the twelve figures which I can recommend you to retain in its place. Of the condition of the rest you can now judge from the figures themselves. If reset in the tower they will rapidly fall to pieces, to the danger of the church and the passers by, and as they will be inaccessible after the scaffolding is struck, no one will be able to watch the progress of their decay, or to give any warning of the catastrophe. Two of the figures, F and K, which fell into two pieces during removal, might at any time have done so before the repair of the tower was thought of. A similar danger will be incurred from the rest, if you should be persuaded to reinstate them, and I cannot think you would be justified in running so great a risk,—which is indeed no risk at all, but the certainty of a catastrophe.

Mr. Frampton, the sculptor whom you authorised me to employ, has now modelled two of the figures, A and B, completely, and the casts have been tried in their places; with a few trifling alterations the result will be, I think, very successful. The figures seem to suit the architecture admirably, and will be very well seen. He has also nearly done three other models. He is now ready to begin carving them in stone, and as the builder's work is so far advanced, it is time that this were begun, or the completion of the work will be delayed. I should therefore be glad of your final instructions in this matter.

One consideration perhaps ought not to be overlooked, and that is, that whereas the old statues are doomed to speedy ruin if replaced in the niches, they would last for any length of time in a museum. I feel of course that the value of decorative sculpture as a work of art is destroyed by its being removed from its original place, and lodged in a museum, but though the statues of St. Mary's would no doubt suffer in this way, it seems to me better to preserve them even so, than to doom them to certain destruction. In spite of the ruin and restoration they have undergone, they are still very admirable examples of fourteenth century art in England.

Mr. Frampton proposes to come to Oxford and carve the new statues on the spot. For this purpose he would require a simple shed, and if you approve I will arrange for this being put up. The expense will be small, and the advantage of having constant access to the old statues will be obvious. Our idea of the right course to take in making new figures has been that the general conception of the original figures should be followed as to subject, pose, and treatment, but that the new figures should not be mere servile copies of the old ones, which indeed is hardly possible, and, if possible, would result in mere worthless and mechanical copyism. The true artistic method, in our opinion, is to make the new figures as good artistically as modern art can make them, not copying the mannerism of the old work, but preserving its general feeling, and of course paying due consideration to the surrounding architecture. Mr. Frampton and I are quite of one mind in this matter, and I think you may rely on his giving you a really fine series of statues, not unworthy of St. Mary's steeple.

I am, Gentlemen,

Yours faithfully,

T. G. JACKSON, A.R.A.

To the Curators of the University Chest.

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE,

November 13, 1893.

2. Voting on Statute.

The following form of Statute, the Amended Clause of which was approved by Congregation on Tuesday, November 21, will be submitted to the House:—

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for the case of the Examiners in a Pass School being divided in opinion as to the work of a Candidate, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. E. § 5 (p. 137, ed. 1893), after clause 7 the following clause shall be inserted:

"If the Examiners in any Pass School are divided in opinion as to the work of a Candidate, his case shall be decided by the votes of the majority; and if in voting the Examiners shall be equally divided, the Senior Examiner who votes shall have a second or casting vote."

3. Promulgation of Statutes.

The following forms of Statute will be promulgated:—

WHEREAS it is expedient that Candidates for the Final Honour Examination in Animal Morphology in the Honour School of Natural Science should give at least three months' notice of their intention to offer that subject, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. C. § 5. cl. 6 (p. 113, ed. 1893), after the words "intending to offer" shall be inserted the words "Animal Morphology or".

2. Ibid., in D. § 3. cl. 1 (p. 129), the word "eight" shall be struck out, and the word "six" shall be substituted: and the words "two for Animal Morphology" shall be struck out: and before the words "Botany or Geology" shall be inserted the words "Animal Morphology or".

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the regulations under which Candidates are admitted to the Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine, so far as relates to the period during which the names of Candidates may be entered for that Examination, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. v. § 3. cl. 2 (p. 149, ed. 1893), the words "first day of the week in which the Examination is to be held" shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted, "day fixed for the commencement of the Examination."

2. Ibid., after cl. 2, the following clause shall be inserted:—

"3. A Candidate whose name has not been forwarded to the Secretary fourteen days before the day fixed for the commencement of the Examination, may be admitted to examination on payment of Two Guineas in addition to the statutable fee, provided that his name shall have been received by the Secretary not less than four days before the day for the commencement of the Examination."

Note.—This Statute provides (1) that names may be given in as late as fourteen days before the beginning of the Examination instead of (as at present) fourteen days before the first day of the week in which the Examination is held; (2) that a Schedula Suppletoria be instituted.

This change will be for the convenience of the Candidates, who (as a rule) are non-resident.

WHEREAS it is expedient that two complete Examinations in all the subjects for the degree of Bachelor of Medicine should be held in each year, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. v. § 3. cl. 1 (p. 149, ed. 1893), the words "Of the Examinations" to "every year in Trinity Term" shall be struck out, and the following words substituted for them:—

"The Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine shall take place twice in every year, namely, in Michaelmas Term and in Trinity Term."

Note.—The present arrangement under which the Examinations for the degree of B.M. are held only once a year, is found to be inconvenient to the Candidates and to injure them in their practice, and the Board of the Faculty of Medicine recommend that the Examination should be held twice a year.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the University should require certain Certificates to be presented by Candidates before admission to the Second Examination for the degree of Bachelor of Medicine, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. v. § 2. cl. 3 (p. 148, ed. 1893), at the end of the clause the following words shall be added:—

"Every Candidate shall, before he is admitted to the Examination, present Certificates of instruction in Infectious Diseases and Mental Disease, and of attendance on Labours and of proficiency in the practice of Vaccination."

Note.—The proposal that Candidates for the degree of B.M. should present the Certificates referred to in the Statute, is brought forward to satisfy the requirements of the Medical Council.

BOARD OF THE FACULTY OF MEDICINE.

Repeated Notice.

The Board of the Faculty of Medicine desires to draw the attention of Members of the University entering on the study of Medicine in Oxford, to the desirability of their registering themselves as Students of Medicine at the earliest possible date, on account of the Recommendations passed by the General Medical Council on May 29, 1893.

1. "Every Medical Student shall at the commencement of his studentship be registered in the manner and under the conditions prescribed by the standing Resolutions of the Council."

2. "The period of professional study between the date of registration as a Medical Student and the date of the Final Examination for any Diploma which entitles its holder to be registered under the Medical Acts, shall be a period of bona fide study during not less than five years."

Although the University requires no evidence of registration as a Medical Student, nor of five years having been passed in Medical study from its members presenting themselves for the Final Examination for the Bachelor of Medicine degree, such evidence is required by the Examining Board in England before admitting Candidates to its Final Examination.

Members of the University who have passed Responsions, and are certified by a recognised College or University teacher to have entered on Medical study, can be placed on the Students' Register by applying either personally or by letter, containing the necessary evidence of having complied with the above conditions, to the Registrar at the Office of the General Medical Council, 299 Oxford Street, London, W.

Note.—The commencement of the study of Physics, Chemistry or Biology, for the preliminary Examination in the Natural Science School, is accepted as evidence of Medical study.

The Scholarships and the Prize are open to all members of the University who have not exceeded the twenty-third Term from their Matriculation.

The subject-matter of the examination will be for one Scholarship the German Language and Literature, and for the other Scholarship the Italian Language and Literature, according to the terms of the notice issued on May 9, 1891, copies of which, as well as of that relating to the Russian Prize, may be had on application at the Lodge of the Taylor Institution.

The attention of Candidates is called to the following notice, which was issued by the Curators in June, 1892—

1. The Curators of the Taylorian Institution will provide, in combination with the annual Examination for Scholarships, a more general Examination in the same languages as those in which the Scholarships are offered.

2. Certificates will be given under the signatures of the Examiners of two kinds:—(a) "with distinction," for Candidates who under the present system of Scholarship Examinations would obtain "honourable mention;" (b) an ordinary Certificate, for those who show a creditable knowledge of the language and subjects.

3. The Examination will be the same as that for the Scholarships, but Candidates for Certificates only will not be required to do the Papers which relate to the specially prepared Books or periods. Questions of a more elementary character, intended specially for Candidates for Certificates only, will be set (1) in Grammar and Philology, (2) in Literature. Certificates, however, can be obtained also by Candidates for the Scholarships on the Papers set for the Scholarships.

4. There will be a viva voce Examination for Candidates for the Certificates.

5. The limit for standing will be the same as that for Candidates for the Scholarships, viz. not exceeding the twenty-third Term from Matriculation.

6. The first Examination for Certificates will be held in December, 1892, in the French and Spanish languages. In December, 1893, the Examination will be in the German and Italian languages, and so on afterwards in alternate years.

An Examination will be holden on Tuesday, February 20, 1894, and following days, for the purpose of filling up—

1. At least FOUR FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIPS, of the yearly value of £80. To one of these Scholarships, which is called an EGLESFIELD SCHOLARSHIP, no one is eligible who is not a native of Cumberland or Westmorland, unless no competent Candidate so qualified offers himself. Strong Financial Position.

Funds, £1,008,127. Income from Premiums and Interest, £86,551.

The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Large Bonuses to Policy Holders.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus.

Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Next Division of Profits in June, 1895.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

A prospectus and proposal form may be obtained upon application to the Secretary in London, or to the Society's correspondent at Oxford, C. N. JACKSON, Esq., M.A., Hertford College.

(For Qualifications see below.)

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.

1. Honorary Degree.

In a CONVOCATION to be holden on Monday, December 18, at Ten o'clock, it will be proposed to confer the Degree of D.D., honoris causa, on the Rev. ARTHUR CRAWSHAY A. HALL, M.A., Christ Church, Bishop elect of Vermont, U. S. A.

CONGREGATION OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Promulgation of Statute.

In the CONGREGATION to be holden on Tuesday, January 23, 1894, at Two o'clock, the following form of Statute will be promulgated:—

WHEREAS it is expedient that Candidates for examination should not in certain cases be debarred from offering books which they have already offered in the Examinations for Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. cl. 2 (p. 92, ed. 1893), the words "provided that such certificates in each case shall specify the books, if any, offered by the Candidate in such examination" shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: "provided that in all cases in which the books, if any, offered by the Candidate form a necessary part of his examination, the Certificate shall specify the books so offered."

2. Ibid., Sect. I. B. § 1. cl. 9 (p. 100, ed. 1893), and C. § 2. cl. 5 (p. 110), at the end of each clause the following words shall be added:—

"Provided that Candidates who, as having obtained one or more of the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, have claimed exemption from passing Responsions, and who satisfied the Examiners in the examinations for such Certificates in more than one Greek author as a necessary part of their examination, shall not thereby be prevented from offering the same Greek books or portions of the same Greek authors."

3. Ibid., § 10. cl. 3 (p. 122), after the words "equivalent to Responsions" the following words shall be added:—

"Provided that this restriction shall not apply in the case of Candidates who have claimed exemption from passing Responsions, as having obtained one or more of the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, if they satisfied the Examiners in the Examinations for such Certificates in more than one Greek author as a necessary part of their examination."

If this Statute should be accepted by Convocation the following forms of Decree will be proposed:—

Candidates who, as having obtained one or more of the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, have claimed exemption from passing Responsions, and who have satisfied the Masters of the Schools in a portion of a Latin author as an Additional Subject, shall in all cases be deemed for the purposes of Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. C. § 10. cl. 3, to have satisfied the Masters of the Schools in an Additional Subject.

Candidates who, as having obtained one or more of the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, have claimed exemption from passing Responsions, shall not thereby be prevented from offering in any part of the First or Second Public Examination, the same Latin books or portions of the same Latin authors in which they satisfied the Examiners in the examinations for such Certificates.

Note.

(1) The only case in which a book is taken into account in granting a Leaving Certificate is when a Candidate offers a Greek book without offering Greek Prose. Clause 1 provides that in future this shall be the only case in which a book shall be specified on the Certificate. Clauses 2 and 3 provide that if the Candidate has offered one author only, that author may not be offered again; but that if he has offered two authors, they may be offered again.

(2) The Decrees will relieve Candidates who already hold Leaving Certificates which specify Latin Books.

Strong Financial Position.

Funds, £1,008,127. Income from Premiums and Interest, £86,551.

The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Large Bonuses to Policy Holders.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus. Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Next Division of Profits in June, 1895.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

A prospectus and proposal form may be obtained upon application to the Secretary in London, or to the Society's correspondent at Oxford, C. N. JACKSON, Esq., M.A., Hertford College.

Strong Financial Position.

Funds, £1,008,127. Income from Premiums and Interest, £86,551.

The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Large Bonuses to Policy Holders.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus. Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced-with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Next Division of Profits in June, 1895.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

A prospectus and proposal form may be obtained upon application to the Secretary in London, or to the Society's correspondent at Oxford, C. N. JACKSON, Esq., M.A., Hertford College.

(For Qualifications see below.)

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.
6. Assured Members have therefore absolute security, with the prospect of the continuance of a high rate of Bonus.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus.

Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Next Division of Profits in June, 1895.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

A prospectus and proposal form may be obtained upon application to the Secretary in London, or to the Society's correspondent at Oxford, C. N. JACKSON, Esq., M.A., Hertford College.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the regulations under which Candidates are admitted to the Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine, so far as relates to the period during which the names of Candidates may be entered for that Examination, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

2. Ibid., after cl. 2, the following clause shall be inserted:—

That the operation of the Statute respecting Certificates to be presented by Candidates before admission to the Second Examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine be suspended till Michaelmas Term, 1895.

3. Decrees.

The following forms of Decree will be proposed:—

That no election be made to the office of Bampton Lecturer for the years 1896, 1898, and 1900.

Note.—The sole endowment of the Lecture is a farm in Buckinghamshire. The Curators of the University Chest have found it necessary within the last few years to rebuild entirely the homestead, except the farmhouse; to erect additional buildings; to underdrain a great part of the arable land; and to effect other improvements. The expense has in part been met out of accumulations of income in hand when the works were commenced, but there remain a debt and liability on the estate amounting to about £775. To provide for the repayment of this sum the Curators have, with the assent of the Electors to the Lectureship, recommended that the appointment of a Lecturer be suspended in the three alternate years commencing with 1896. A precedent for this course was afforded some sixty years ago, when, under circumstances very similar to the present, the appointment of a Lecturer was omitted for two years (1834 and 1835).

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding £100—(1) in making a new road from the existing road in the Park to the yard of the Anatomical Laboratory; (2) in making a new road inside the railing on the north side of the Museum, which will allow the road from the Park to the precincts of the Physiological Laboratory to be stopped up, turfed, and planted; (3) in rearranging the railing which separates the Park from the Museum precincts; and (4) in doing some planting and turfing incidental to the above alterations.

Note.—This decree is proposed with the approval of the Curators of the Park and the Curators of the University Chest. Further information as to the proposed roads may be obtained on application at the Office of the Curators of the University Chest.

Whereas a sum of £103 has been subscribed in memory of the late HUGH RUSSELL WELSH, B.A., Trinity College, and has been offered to the University as the endowment of a Prize for the encouragement of the study of Human Anatomy, and, in particular, of the art of Drawing in relation thereto, the University accepts the said offer upon the terms and conditions following.

1. The said sum of £103, and the investments for the time being representing the same, shall be held by the University upon an account to be called "The Welsh Memorial Fund."

2. The income of the Fund shall be paid to the Professor of Human Anatomy, or other principal Teacher of Human Anatomy within the University, and shall be offered by him once in every year, either in money or books, as a prize for the best set of drawings illustrative of Human Anatomy, the work of a Student, being a member of the University, who shall have been bona fide engaged in the study of that subject in the Anatomical Laboratory of the University during not less than one term (Easter and Act Terms being reckoned as one) prior to the term in which the prize is to be awarded. Provided always that no person shall be eligible for the prize who has passed the First Examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Medicine in the University of Oxford, or an examination in Anatomy necessary for registration as a qualified Medical Practitioner, and that the prize shall never be awarded a second time to the same person.

3. In the event of no Student submitting a set of Drawings as aforesaid, or of no Drawings being submitted which shall be in the judgment of the Professor of sufficient merit to be deserving of the prize, the Professor may at his absolute discretion award the sum to any Student qualified as aforesaid as a reward for conspicuous excellence in any other branch of the study or practice of Human Anatomy.

4. If in any year the prize be not awarded the income of the fund for that year shall be repaid by the Professor (or Teacher) to the Curators of the University Chest, who shall invest the same in augmentation of the Capital of the Trust-fund.

5. These regulations may at any time be added to, altered, or repealed by Convocation.

That the Vice-Chancellor be authorized to institute proceedings in the name of the University in the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, with a view to obtaining the sanction of the Court to changing the title of "Ford's Professor of English History" to that of "Ford's Lecturer in English History."

Note.—Since the rejection in May, 1893, of the proposed Statute for the establishment of a Ford's Professorship, the Hebdomadal Council has taken the opinion of Counsel to the University on the question.

Counsel was requested to advise:—

1. Whether it is competent to the University, without recourse to other authority, to make regulations under which the title, "Ford's Professor of English History" shall be changed to that of "Lecturer" or "Reader."
2. If the answer to question 1 is in the negative, whether the University can, with the leave of the High Court, make the change.
3. If so, whether the Court would be likely to give leave on such considerations as have been suggested above, or on what other grounds (if any) an application to the Court should be based.
4. Generally on the case.

"1 and 2. The testator must be taken to have used the word 'Professor' in the sense in which it was understood in Oxford at the time he made his Will, a sense distinct from that of Lecturer or Reader. I am of opinion, therefore, that the University ought not to change the title without the authority of the High Court.

"3. I am of opinion that the High Court would authorize the suggested change by an application of the cy-près doctrine as explained by Lord Westbury in Clephane v. Lord Provost of Edinburgh, L. R., 1 H. L. (Sc.), at page 421, and illustrated by Re Richardson's Will, 58 L. T., N. S., 45, and numerous other cases.

"4. The proper course to be pursued in order to effect the purpose in view is for the University to commence an action in the Chancery Division against the Attorney-General, asking for authority to change the title, and the evidence may, with the Attorney-General's consent, be taken by affidavit, and the action put in the non-witness list, in which case, in the existing state of business, the hearing will not be very long delayed. A Petition under Sir Samuel Romilly's Act is not competent under the circumstances.

MONTAGUE CRACKANTHORPE.

"December 21, 1893."

II. CONGREGATION OF THE UNIVERSITY.

1. Voting on Statute.

The following form of Statute, the Preamble of which was approved by Congregation on Tuesday, December 5, and to which no Amendment has been proposed, will be submitted to the House:—

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the regulations under which Candidates are admitted to the examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Civil Law, so far as relates to the period during which the names of Candidates may be entered for that examination, and to provide for the publication of the names of Candidates admitted to that examination, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. IV. § 3. cl. 3 (p. 145, ed. 1893), the words from “not less than four” to “the fee of £1 1s.” shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: “have forwarded his name and a list of the subjects in which he offers himself for examination, together with the fee of £1 1s., so as to reach the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties not less than four weeks before the day for the commencement of the Examination.”

2. Ibid., after clause 3 the following clauses shall be inserted:—

“4. A Candidate whose name and list of books have not been duly forwarded as aforesaid, may be admitted to examination on payment of Two Guineas in addition to the statutable fee, provided that his name and list shall have been forwarded so as to reach the Secretary not less than two weeks before the day for the commencement of the examination. The Secretary shall transmit the name and list so forwarded immediately to the Regius Professor of Civil Law.”

“5. The Secretary shall publish a list of the names of Candidates and, if necessary, a supplemental list in the manner prescribed with reference to Candidates for the Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts.”

2. Amendments to Statute.

The following Amendments to the proposed form of Statute respecting Books specified in Leaving Certificates, which have been duly reported to Council, will be taken into consideration:—

(1)

In cl. 1 the words from “provided that such certificates” to the end of the clause shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: “‘such certificates in each case’ shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: ‘all such certificates excepting the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools.’”

(2)

Cl. 2 shall be struck out.

(3)

Cl. 3 shall be struck out.

Proposed by J. R. KING, M.A., Fellow of Oriel College.

Seconded by T. H. GROSE, M.A., Fellow of Queen's College.

The following is the form of Statute to which the foregoing Amendments refer:—

WHEREAS it is expedient that Candidates for examination should not in certain cases be debarred from offering books which they have already offered in the Examinations for Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. cl. 2 (p. 92, ed. 1893), the words “provided that such certificates in each case shall specify the books, if any, offered by the Candidate in such examination” shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: “provided that in all cases in which the books, if any, offered by the Candidate form a necessary part of his examination, the Certificate shall specify the books so offered.”

2. Ibid., Sect. I. B. § 1. cl. 9 (p. 100, ed. 1893), and C. § 2. cl. 5 (p. 110), at the end of each clause the following words shall be added:—

“Provided that Candidates who, as having obtained one or more of the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, have claimed exemption from passing Responsions, and who satisfied the Examiners in the examinations for such Certificates in more than one Greek author as a necessary part of their examination, shall not thereby be prevented from offering the same Greek books or portions of the same Greek authors.”

3. Ibid., § 10. cl. 3 (p. 122), after the words “equivalent to Responsions” the following words shall be added:—

“Provided that this restriction shall not apply in the case of Candidates who have claimed exemption from passing Responsions, as having obtained one or more of the Higher Certificates granted by the Delegates for the Inspection and Examination of Schools, if they satisfied the Examiners in the Examinations for such Certificates in more than one Greek author as a necessary part of their examination.”

3. Promulgation of Statute.

The following form of Statute will be promulgated:—

WHEREAS by a Statute “Concerning the Duties of Professors” made by the Commissioners wholly for the University under the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Act, 1877, and approved by the Queen in Council, May 3, 1882, it is provided under the heading “General Regulations: Duties of Professors,” in cl. 5 (p. 27, ed. 1893), that the University may by Statute “authorize any Professor to require payment of fees not exceeding a specified amount in respect of all or any of his lectures or of the instruction to be given by him.”

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to authorize certain of the Professors enumerated in the same Statute in Schedule (C) to charge certain fees, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

The following forms of Decree will be proposed:—

That EDWARD B. TITCHENER, B.A., Brasenose College, now resident in the United States of America, being otherwise statutablely qualified, be permitted to supplicate for the degree of M.A. in absence.

That for the purpose of providing the £4000, which, under the agreement dated June 7, 1892, between C. D. E. FORTNUM, Esq., and the University, is to be expended in fitting up and furnishing the New Ashmolean Museum, the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to sell a competent portion of a sum of £6558 os. 7d. Consols, representing a fund appropriated by the University in 1845 to the purposes of the University Galleries, and that they be further authorized to provide in such a manner as they may think fit for replacing within a period, not exceeding twenty years from the date of sale, the stock to be so sold, and for recouping the University Galleries during the same period for any loss of income arising from such sale.

Note.—The Eastern Libraries Research Fund was instituted under the auspices of the Professors and Lecturers in Theology for the purpose of sending one or two competent Oriental scholars to examine and report upon the Manuscripts belonging to the Library of the Convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai, which as yet are very imperfectly known, though partial research among them has already yielded valuable results. Mr. J. F. STENNING, M.A., Senior Demy of Magdalen College, and Mr. A. E. COWLEY, M.A., of Trinity College, have already left England on this mission, aided by letters of introduction from the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Oxford. On their return from Mount Sinai, they hope, if funds permit, to visit for a like purpose some libraries in Palestine. It is calculated that a sum not exceeding £300 will be required to cover expenses, towards which about £220 has already been contributed by members of the University.

That the stipend of the present Deputy Professor of Sanskrit be increased to £400 per annum by the addition of £66 13s. 4d. to the stipend paid to him under the Boden Statute. The additional stipend to be paid out of the accumulations of the Boden Fund, and the decree to remain in force for five years if the present Deputy Professor should hold his office so long.

Note.—This is a renewal of the decree of March 5, 1889.

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.
6. Assured Members have therefore absolute security, with the prospect of the continuance of a high rate of Bonus.

I. CONVOCATION.

1. Presentation of Reports.

The Thirty-sixth Annual Report of the Delegacy under the Statute “ Of the Delegates of Local Examinations ” for the year 1893, and the Seventeenth Annual Report on the Oxford University Examination for Women for the year 1893, will be presented to the House.

* * Copies of the Reports may be seen at the Office of the Delegacy of Local Examinations.

2. Voting on Statute.

The following form of Statute, which was approved by Congregation on Tuesday, February 6, will be submitted to the House :—

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the regulations under which Candidates are admitted to the examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Civil Law, so far as relates to the period during which the names of Candidates may be entered for that examination, and to provide for the publication of the names of Candidates admitted to that examination, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. IV. § 3. cl. 3 (p. 145, ed. 1893), the words from “ not less than four ” to “ the fee of £1 1s. ” shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted:

"have forwarded his name and a list of the subjects in which he offers himself for examination, together with the fee of £1 1s., so as to reach the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties not less than four weeks before the day for the commencement of the Examination."

OXFORD ARCHITECTURAL AND HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The following Excursion is proposed:—

CCXX. SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17, AT 2.20 P.M.

ISLIP AND WATER-EATON.

It is proposed to leave the London and North Western Station by the train which starts for Islip at 2.20.

Islip is particularly known as the birthplace of Edward the Confessor. The party will walk back to Oxford, and on their way, by permission of Mrs. SOTHAM, visit Water-Eaton, where an ancient Manor House and an interesting Chapel exist,—very perfect examples of the reign of Henry VIII.

EVENING MEETING.

A Meeting will be held in the Ashmolean Museum (by kind permission of the Keeper, A. J. EVANS, M.A.), on Tuesday, February 20, at 8.15 P.M.

An account of the interesting Remains, including a Font, or Stoup, recently discovered in digging the foundations of the new Town Hall, will be given by HERBERT HURST, M.A. It is hoped also that the above-named curious relic will be brought for exhibition, as well as other objects found on the site.

"Some Notes on Pictures of Stone and Timber Buildings in Saxon MSS." will be read by J. PARK HARRISON, M.A., Christ Church.

Some rubbings of early Crosses in Yorkshire, showing interlacing work, &c., will be exhibited by Mr. P. MANNING.

I. HEBDOMADAL COUNCIL.

Presentation of Report.

At a meeting of the Hebdomadal Council holden on Monday, February 19, the following Report of the Committee on Degrees for Research was presented and approved :—

Committee.

THE PRESIDENT OF CORPUS, MASTER OF PEMBROKE, PRESIDENT OF TRINITY, PROFESSOR ODLING, PROFESSOR PELHAM, Mr. ROBINSON, Mr. GROSE, Mr. MACAN, Mr. RALEIGH, The DEAN OF CHRIST CHURCH (in the Chair).

The Committee was appointed to consider a Memorial asking that the degree of B.A. might be granted without examination to students who have carried on research in Oxford, and whose work has been duly tested and approved.

The proposal to make a new avenue to the degree of B.A. seemed open to serious objection ; while it was thought likely that the scheme might with advantage be recast so as to provide for two classes of men engaged in special study : (1) members of the University of Oxford who have taken the B.A. degree ; and (2) students who have passed examinations elsewhere which indicate the same level of general education as is denoted by the B.A. degree at Oxford. The majority of those who gave evidence on behalf of the Memorialists accepted this modification of the first proposal. Such evidence was given by Professor Poulton, Mr. A. J. Evans, Professor Sanday, Professor Napier, Professor Gardner, Mr. Sadler, Professor Rücker, and Dr. Fairbairn.

After discussion the Committee resolved :

1. That it is not desirable to alter the conditions under which the ordinary B.A. degree may be obtained.
2. That it is not desirable to prescribe fresh conditions (such as those indicated in the Memorial) under which a degree co-ordinate with the B.A. may be obtained.
3. That it is desirable that there should be a degree of the same character with the B.C.L. or B.M. degree, approached by a course of special study or research.
4. That this degree should be open, under the conditions hereinafter specified, (a) to members of the University of Oxford who have taken the B.A. degree, and (b) to students, not being graduates of Oxford, who have taken any degree equivalent to the B.A., or have given other satisfactory proof of general education and of fitness to enter on a course of special study.
5. That no additional residence be required from those who have taken the B.A. degree.
6. That for the second class of students three years' residence shall be required, except in the case of those who have studied for at least two years in a University or Local College approved by Convocation, or in an Affiliated College : and that in the excepted cases two years' residence shall be required.
7. That no one shall be allowed to enter on the special course of study or research for this degree below the age of twenty-one, save for special reasons approved by the authority to be hereinafter constituted.

The following arrangements have been approved for giving effect to the foregoing Resolutions :—

A. The Machinery.

Special Delegacy.

I. A special Delegacy shall be established, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, one member elected by each of the Boards of Faculties, and four members of Congregation, two of whom shall be elected by Council and two by Congregation.

II. It shall be the duty of the Delegacy

- (1) to receive and decide upon all applications for admission to the courses leading to the Degree ;
- (2) to arrange for the supervision of the candidates' studies ;
- (3) to satisfy themselves from time to time that the candidates admitted are pursuing their studies in a satisfactory manner ;
- (4) to suspend or exclude from the course any student whose conduct or progress is unsatisfactory ;
- (5) to grant certificates to candidates authorizing them to supplicate for the Degree.

Committees.

Any application from a candidate for admission shall be in the first instance referred by the Delegacy to a Committee of three persons, one of whom shall always be a Professor or Reader within whose department the candidate's proposed line of study or research falls, or, in default of any Professor or Reader, some resident graduate of the University of acknowledged eminence in regard to the subject.

It shall be the duty of the Committee to satisfy themselves as to

- (1) the candidate's capacity for the course of study which he proposes to follow ;
 - (2) the nature and value of such course ;
 - (3) the candidate's general acquirements and character ;
- and to report to the Delegacy accordingly.

It shall also be the duty of this Committee to provide for the supervision of the candidate's work ; to report to the Delegacy, and to the authorities of the College at which the Candidate is matriculated, or to the Censor of Non-Collegiate Students, from time to time as to his progress and conduct ; and to submit to the Delegacy evidence whether he has or has not complied with the conditions prescribed, as qualifying for the Degree.

B. Conditions.

I. Admission.

- (1) Every candidate must send in to the Delegacy a written application stating the line of study or research which he wishes to pursue, any previous degree or other distinction which he has obtained, and his age ; together with evidence as to his character, capacity, and general qualifications.
- (2) No candidate shall be admitted
 - (a) who is under the age of twenty-one : save for special reasons approved by the Delegacy ;
 - (b) who has not satisfied the Delegacy
 - (i) that his proposed line of study or research is a fit and proper one ;
 - (ii) that he is qualified to pursue it ;
 - (iii) that he possesses a good general education ;
 - (iv) that he is of good character.
- (3) Every candidate approved by the Delegacy, not being already a member of the University, shall be required to matriculate, paying the ordinary fees.

II. Course of Study.

- (1) All candidates shall be required to reside or to have resided in the University for three years, provided always that residence for two years in a University or Local College in a list approved by Convocation, or in an Affiliated College, shall be reckoned as equivalent to one year's residence in Oxford.
- (2) Each candidate shall pursue his studies, during his term of residence, under the supervision and guidance of the Committee appointed by the Delegacy.

III. Degree.

Any candidate who wishes to supplicate for this degree must produce, in addition to the grace of his College, a certificate from the Delegacy of his fitness to do so.

This certificate shall state the line of study or research which the candidate has pursued, and shall be accompanied by a report, drawn up by the candidate, of the work he has done.

This report shall be countersigned by the Committee under whose supervision he has been placed.

Both the certificate and the report shall be published to the University.

C. Designation and Privileges.

I. The Degree thus obtained shall be the Degree of M.Sc. or M.Litt.

II. Those who have received this Degree may supplicate for the M.A. Degree on paying the usual fees, provided that they have completed the required number of Terms from their matriculation.

Those Candidates who have studied for at least two years in a University or Local College approved by Convocation, shall enjoy the same privilege with respect to standing as that conferred on Students of Affiliated Colleges by Statt. II. Sect. VI. cl. 6 (c).

(1) That equal weight should be given to Language and to Literature.

(2) That all Candidates should be required to show proficiency in both Language and Literature.

(3) That opportunities should also be given for the special study of either Language or Literature, at least by Candidates for the highest honours.

- (4) That an essential part of the Examination should be the study of original authors, and that such authors should be studied in connexion with the history and thought of the period to which they belong.

Under the provisions of the draft Statute

- (a) Every Candidate will be examined in

The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Large Bonuses to Policy Holders.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus.

Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Next Division of Profits in June, 1895.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

(3) That opportunities should also be given for the special study of either Language or Literature, at least by Candidates for the highest honours.

(4) That an essential part of the Examination should be the study of original authors, and that such authors should be studied in connexion with the history and thought of the period to which they belong.

Under the provisions of the draft Statute

(a) Every Candidate will be examined in

(1) The history of the English Language;

(2) The history of English Literature;

(3) In the text and matter of certain authors, such authors to be studied in connexion with the history and thought of the time.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus. Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.

3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.

5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.

That it is expedient to establish new degrees, to be granted after a course of special study or research to members of the University who have passed the examinations qualifying for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and to persons not being graduates of Oxford who have given satisfactory proof of general education and of fitness to enter on a course of special study.

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

- Attention is directed to the following Special features :—
1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
 2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed, or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
 3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
 4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
 5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.
 6. Assured Members have therefore absolute security, with the prospect of the continuance of a high rate of Bonus.

The Shelley donation.—The year will always be memorable for the donation of the Shelley collection, one of the most important gifts received by the library for many years. It was made by Jane, Lady Shelley, the poet's daughter-in-law, and consisted partly of volumes given under conditions as to inspection and copying which had been accepted by the Curators in 1892, but chiefly of volumes given unconditionally.

The former section consists of MS. letters of Shelley, his second wife, and others, together with two printed volumes—which contain the journal-book of Shelley and his second wife, letters from and to them, and other biographical documents.

The latter section, of which, agreeably to Lady Shelley's wishes, a considerable part is permanently exhibited in the library, consists of 10 autograph MSS. of the poet's, 3 volumes of his printed works, the Sophocles found in his hand after death, and two copies of portraits of him.

The Radcliffe collection.—When the Radcliffe library, now at the University Museum, was founded, and the Radcliffe 'camera' erected for its reception, its scope was meant to be quite general; not until the present century was it specialized for natural science. The collections of Oriental MSS. belonging to that library were deposited in the Bodleian in 1872 by the Radcliffe Trustees, and the Trustees have now presented to the Bodleian 5 transcripts of Coptic MSS., and 766 printed volumes which had no special connexion with natural science. Of the printed volumes 482 were published in the United Kingdom, 88 in France, 85 in Holland, 47 in Italy, 40 in Germany, 15 in Belgium, and 9 in other countries, none being duplicates of volumes already in the Bodleian. This very important addition to the library will be kept as a distinct collection.

Miscellaneous donations of MSS.—The other principal donors of MSS. have been the Rev. Andrew Clark, M.A., who has given numerous volumes of antiquarian collections; T. M. Davenport, Esq., M.A., who gave 4 vols. relating to various University matters between 1692 and 1786; the Rev. S. Baronian, who gave an anti-Jewish treatise in Armenian; and the Rev. W. J. Guerrier, M.A., who gave an Arabic MS. on Samaritan history.

Chief donations of printed books.—The most important gift of the year was once more from E. M. Satow, Esq., C.M.G., Her Majesty's Minister in Morocco, who presented nearly thirty volumes relating to South America. Considerable gifts of a miscellaneous kind were received from the Rev. Andrew Clark, M.A., C. H. Firth, Esq., M.A., the Rev. E. Marshall, M.A., J. Grafton Milne, Esq., B.A., F. C. Montague, Esq., M.A., Prof. F. Max Müller, G. R. Scott, Esq., M.A., and W. A. White, Esq., of 130 Water St., New York.

Among the single books presented the following may be specially mentioned: those marked with a * were printed for private circulation only.

'The Text of the book of Llan Dâv,' reproduced by J. Gwenogvryn Evans, Esq., M.A., with the co-operation of Prof. Rhys; given by Mr. Evans.

'Edda Sámund den Vises,' translated by Fredrik Sander from Icelandic into Swedish, and embellished with many illustrations; given by the translator.

* 'The House of Moncrieff,' by George Seton, Esq., M.A., printed for the donor Sir Alexander Moncrieff, K.C.B., and with the numerous coats of arms emblazoned in colours.

* 'Record Book of The Scinde Irregular Horse,' 2 vols., 1856, given by Mr. C. H. Firth.

General Lord Mark Kerr's '*Journals' from 1841–1889, given by himself.

* Dr. E. A. Wallis Budge's account of Lady Meux's collection of Egyptian antiquities, given by Lady Meux.

'Hand-list of proclamations,' vol. 1, 1509–1714, compiled and given by the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres.

The Irish MSS. (MSS. Ir. e. 3, 4, f. 1) consisted of volumes of 'Ossianic' poems and romantic stories.

The Cornish MS. (MS. Corn. c. 1), written in the late 17th cent., when the language was still spoken, included transcripts of the mystery-plays of Mt. Calvary and The Creation of the World.

Of English MSS. the following may be mentioned. A late 17th cent. translation, said to be unknown, of Keating's History of Ireland (MS. Ir. d. 1). Sir Roger Twysden's tables of early English history (MS. Eng. hist. c. 29). A British Necrology, 1625-59 (MSS. Eng. hist. f. 3, 4). An account to Parliament of the Privy Purse secret service expenditure from 1752 to 1769 (MSS. Eng. hist. c. 31, 32). Le Neve's extracts from deeds relating to Norfolk families (MSS. Eng. misc. c. 20, 21). Collections towards a life of Selden (MS. Eng. hist. c. 48). Prayers and notes on the Old Testament by Clarendon, written about 1648 (MS. Clarendon 138*). A pedigree of Browne Willis and his wife (MS. Willis 112). A translation by Gough, in 1751, of all except one of Terence's plays (MS. Lat. class. c. 1). The collections of Dr. Shippen, sometime Principal of Brasenose Coll. and Vice-Chancellor, ranging from c. 1685 to c. 1734 (MSS. Top. Oxon c. 106-8). And 11 vols. of Collectanea by Dr. Ph. Bliss (MSS. Top. Oxon c. 51-63).

The most curious Latin MS. was a Brigittine Collectarius of the 15th cent., with some Swedish rubrics (MS. Lat. liturg. c. 4), believed to be the only ancient MS. of Swedish origin which the library possesses. A volume of private prayers (MS. Lat. liturg. f. 9) mainly executed in France in the early 15th cent. for a lady named Katherine, but with an English calendar; is interesting both for its contents and because it has been supposed to have been executed for the queen of Henry V: the illumination, however, is not so fine as in that event might have been expected. But neither of these purchases compares in historical importance with that of five volumes containing a collection of about 350 charters, mostly with seals, relating to Goring Priory, and ranging from the reign of Henry II to that of Henry VIII (MS. charters, Oxon d. 1-5).

Various fragments of Greek papyri of the Byzantine period were purchased, the most important being part of a deed of sale executed at Apollinopolis Magna (Edfu) in the reign of Tiberius II and Anastasia (578-82). This fragment (MS. Gr. class. a. 2 (P)) contains more or less of the last 62 lines of the deed, and is an excellent specimen of the notarial hand from which the minuscule of the 9th cent. vellum MSS. was developed.

Of the Hebrew MSS. the following may be mentioned. A very large and fine vellum MS., written at Rothenburg on the Tauber in 1308, of Midrash Yalkut on the Pentateuch (MS. Heb. b. 6). An Aramaic marriage-contract of the year 956, the earliest known dated specimen of cursive Hebrew writing. And a Persian deed of the year 1021 in Hebrew characters.

A prettily ornamented Pāli MS. on palm-leaves written in the Siamese Pāli character was purchased (MS. Pāli a. 31), together with a manuscript written in the ordinary Siamese character (MS. Siam. c. 1): it is very rarely that Siamese MSS. of any kind occur for purchase.

A Syriac MS. of the Catholic Epistles written in India in 1734 was acquired (MS. Syr. e. 6), and two additional palimpsest leaves containing unknown fragments of the 'Jerusalem Syriac' version of the Old Testament.

The Aethiopic MS. purchased was an abundantly illuminated life of the saint Takla Haimanot (MS. Aeth. c. 3), probably executed in the 17th cent. The library, although well known for its collection of Aethiopic MSS., had not hitherto numbered among them any choice specimen of illumination. This MS. has also an historical interest as containing the autographs of eight of the captives whose detention caused the Abyssinian war.

The Chinese MS. (MS. Chin. c. 15) was an account of the Maout-ze tribe on the N.-W. frontier of China, with abundant pictorial representations of their manners and customs.

And the Japanese MS. (MS. Jap. c. 1) consisted of an old and finely executed series of 40 legendary paintings, each measuring about $1 \times 1\frac{1}{2}$ ft.

Purchase of special facsimiles of MSS.—By the kind permission of Earl Fitzwilliam a manuscript of extreme interest for the history of the earlier University library has been photographed.

In 1873-9 the Early English Text Society published 'from the unique MS. in Colchester Castle' an edition of a 15th cent. English verse translation of Palladius De re rustica. In 1886 the Bodleian bought the 15th cent. MS. from which this edition was made. But in the Athenaeum of Nov. 17, 1888, attention was called by Mr. H. J. Moule to the fact that Lord Fitzwilliam possessed the translator's own dedication-copy addressed to Humfrey, Duke of Gloucester, and containing dedicatory verses which refer to the gifts made by the duke to the library of Oxford University. This MS. Lord Fitzwilliam lent in 1893 to the Bodleian, where it was photographed by the Clarendon Press.

The name of the translator is nowhere found, but he was a cleric, who says that he and his had been oppressed for ten years by some one who still kept from him 'in effect' his church and all his good; and that he had been taught metre by the duke. It is clear that he had been specially commissioned to execute this work, but he had only pledged himself to the first of the thirteen books of which his poem is composed: apparently he sent to his patron each book as soon as finished. His mention in the dedication of the fact that the duke had given the University 130 books shows that the work was not begun before Nov. 1439*, and his omission to record the gift of Feb. 25, 1443† almost proves that he finished it before the latter date. He likewise seems familiar with the interior of the University library; for he describes the duke's books as stored 'In deskis xii . . . as half a strete.' The metre is quite sound, and the use of final e carefully regulated—features which point to his being a man of at least middle age.

It is barely credible that the name of the author of this poem of between six and seven thousand lines should not have been perpetuated by other poetical works, and the Librarian suggests that he was the John Waltwn, Waltoun, or Walton who in 1410† translated Boethius de Consolatione Philosophiae into English verse for Elisabet Berkeley, employing in part the same stanza in which the Palladius is written. Oxford MSS. of the Boethius call him 'capellanum Johannem' and 'nuper canonicum de Oseneye', and the style 'capellanum' suggests that he may have been the chaplain of the University, who at that time was also University librarian.

* An allusion in the dedication to the Duke of Orleans seems to imply that the latter had not yet been restored to liberty—an event which took place on Nov. 12, 1440.

† This would be about the time when Humfrey himself was at the University.

A comparison of the facsimile of the Fitzwilliam MS. with the MS. previously in the Bodleian seems to show that the latter represents the author's unfinished draft of a new edition, prepared after Duke Humfrey's death. The phraseology has been much altered, the dedicatory verses omitted, and the laudatory epilogues to the different books either left out or shorn of all allusion to the duke; but the gaps made in the metre by this latter process have not yet been filled up. The text of the later copy has also been accidentally mutilated in other places.

The remarkable value of this poem as a carefully written monument of the educated Oxford dialect of 1440, and as a storehouse of the agricultural vocabulary of this part of England, leads the Librarian to hope that the exceptionally inaccurate printed edition of the imperfect revision of it may soon be replaced by a parallel-text edition of both MSS., which, by Lord Fitzwilliam's kindness in allowing his own to be photographed, can now be prepared in the Bodleian.

'Missel Pontifical de Estevam Gonçalves Netto... Reproduit en Chromolithographie & précédé d'une notice sur l'ornementation des Mss. portugais... par M^r. Ferdinand Denis,' Paris, (1879), fol.

Mention must also be made of two horn-books of the time of Charles II, with a thistle stamped on the back of each, and therefore evidently printed for use in Scotland; together with a thick 'battledore' of the horn-book shape, temp. George III.

Finally, there was bought a collection of 469 Icelandic grafskriftir, ranging from 1823 to 1892. These are funeral-broadsheets, generally containing brief particulars relating to the deceased and suitable poetry. The collection was sent from Iceland, with a consignment of ponies, to a Glasgow merchant, who offered it to the Bodleian: it may be doubted whether any equally extensive collection is to be found out of Iceland.

Purchase of prints.—A few 15th cent. prints were also purchased from the special catalogue issued by Rosenthal of Munich. Among them is a sheet of five small coloured woodcuts—the Visitation of the Virgin, the Virgin (crowned) and Child, the Virgin and Child in glory, St. Katharine with sword and wheel, and a monstrance. These were obviously meant to be cut off and used separately, and Schreiber states that they were employed chiefly for the illustration of calendars: their place of origin is probably Augsburg, and their date about 1490. The remaining prints were a block-printed Munich indulgence of 1482—attributed to Conrad Dinckmut—and a single page of prayers ‘Pro exulibus animabus,’ illustrated with a coloured woodcut of an angel lifting souls out of the flames—the printing of which is attributed to Kunne von Duderstadt of Memmingen.

Cataloguing of MSS.—The number of MSS. catalogued (and with a few exceptions indexed) by Mr. Madan for the Summary Catalogue was 936, making a total of 3059 up to the end of 1893: he also treated 365 MSS. by a cross-reference, making a total of 5300 so treated to the end of 1893. The total number of MSS. dealt with by him in the year was consequently 1301 (140 of these being new accessions, and the remainder belonging to sections K–P of the Rawlinson collection, and the Clarendon, Dawkins, Willis, and Bridges collections); making a total of 8359 MSS. up to the end of 1893. 15 more sheets of the catalogue were passed by him for press, and 1 more was put in type: by the end of the year 34 advance-sheets had been placed on the reference-shelves.

The new Hebrew MSS. were catalogued as usual by Dr. Neubauer.

The Rev. W. D. Macray catalogued and indexed 46 more MSS. in the Rawlinson D. collection; these required 910 entries and 1446 index-slips.

Mr. J. Hutt was occupied on the identification of the unbound Albany autographs.

The printing of the Rawlinson D. catalogue, the catalogue of Armenian MSS., and the catalogue of the Turkish MSS. was continued, and advance-sheets were placed on the reference-shelves. A first volume, embracing nos. 1–860, of the Rawlinson D. catalogue was published by the Clarendon Press.

Part of the arrears-grant from the Common University Fund was again spent on calendaring the uncalendared charters and rolls. On this work Miss Ethel Hurlbatt and Mr. E. G. Hawke, B.A., were engaged, and calendared 162 documents. Part of the work thus executed was revised by Mr. G. Parker.

Finally, the thanks of the Curators and of the University are due to Prof. Margoliouth for having recatalogued, as a labour of love, a large number of the Muhammadan MSS. which are to be included in the new edition of the catalogue of Arabic MSS.

Indexing of MSS.—The index to the Summary Catalogue of MSS. was made available for readers, the slips being arranged by the under-assistant Sweatman.

Handlisting of MSS.—The newly added MSS. were referenced and handlisted by the Librarian or under his direction. He also arranged, handlisted, and sent to the binder large numbers of loose papers belonging to various collections, and referenced and directed the binding of all the charters and rolls catalogued under the arrears-grant in 1892.

Mr. Macray arranged considerable numbers of loose papers and fragments in the Pococke, Rawlinson, and Piggott collections, which were then handlisted.

52 vols. of the Piggott collection were handlisted, and for the most part previously arranged, by the under-assistant Gibson, who likewise handlisted all the volumes relating to Rawlinson's bequest of coins, medals, seals, and rings.

Finally, Mr. W. T. French, Ball. Coll., formerly an under-assistant, referenced in the special printed catalogue 1944 of the Pipe-Office Rolls.

Cataloguing of printed books.—About 16118 slips were transcribed for insertion in each copy of the catalogue: the pressure of other work caused the transcription of large numbers of slips to be deferred till 1894.

Mr. Allnutt revised about 400 catalogue-slips written in 1892 for early-printed fragments, and 91 vols. of old arrears were catalogued.

Under the special grant for work on arrears Mr. R. G. C. Proctor, B.A., completed the catalogue of incunabula, together with a list of 15th century printers, giving a chronological clew to the arrangement of the catalogue, a list of the numbers in Hain and Campbell's bibliographies represented in the catalogue, and a statistical table of the Bodleian incunabula. From this last it appears that on May 26 there were in the library 4832 separate books printed in the 15th cent., besides 605 duplicates, and 172 fragments. Of these, excluding duplicates, there were 57 books and 12 fragments printed at Westminster, 9 books and 8 fragments printed at Oxford (the second English city in which the art was employed), 27 books and 13 fragments printed in London, 4 books and 3 fragments printed at S. Alban's, and 5 un-attributed prints. Under the same grant Mr. Proctor also catalogued about 200 English proclamations.

Under a special grant from the Delegates of the Common University Fund he likewise carried back from the beginning of N to the beginning of H the rough list of British and Irish books in the library printed after 1500 and before 1641: he also compiled the article ‘Elizabeth’ for this catalogue. Having become an assistant in the British Museum, he was unable to complete the catalogue, but before the end of the year some progress had been made by other special assistants with the remaining letters, A–G.

Handlisting and referencing of printed books.—The following are the principal arrears worked off as part of ordinary duty. Mr. Wheeler handlisted 154 vols. and referenced 188. Mr. Hutt handlisted 1485 and referenced 618. Mr. Kebby handlisted 104 and referenced 56. The under-assistant Eden also newly handlisted and referenced the 421 vols. known as ‘Libri Hungarici,’ of which the former references and hand-list were very unsatisfactory.

Under the special grant for work on arrears Mr. Sims referenced 1635 vols. of periodicals and handlisted 767: he also referenced and handlisted 203 vols. and 3565 parts of railway-guides. This work was done in overtime.

Cataloguing of music.—About 3542 slips were transcribed for insertion in each copy of the music-catalogue which is in preparation.

Arrangement of drawings and prints.—Mr. Hutt arranged for binding, and handlisted, 4 volumes of loose Gough drawings and some hundreds of loose Gough prints, all of which had come into the library as far back as 1809: they have now been bound or furnished with proper cases.

The subject-catalogue of printed books.—The preparation of this catalogue was continued, and the remainder of the accumulated slips presenting special difficulty was almost worked through: the use of the catalogue made by readers again exceeded that of any previous year.

Binding.—All the MSS. which, in the course of preparing the Summary Catalogue of MSS., or of handlisting, were found to require binding or repair, were so dealt with. Nearly 30 additional folio volumes were provided for charters and rolls. A further instalment of the Hultzschr Sanskrit MSS. was bound, and the binding of the Carte calendar was nearly finished.

The Radcliffe Trustees having decided that the collections of Oriental MSS. deposited by them in the library should be put in proper repair at their cost, 140 MSS. of the Fraser collection were thus repaired during the year.

With the aid of the special grant of £250 from Convocation, the binding of the Ordnance-maps was continued. About 17000 were strongly bound in 340 vols., together with 48 vols. of area-books. They included various town-maps, the English shires of Hereford, Hunts, Northumberland, Rutland, Salop, Staffs, Sussex, Warwick, Worcester, Wilts; the Welsh shires of Anglesey, Brecon, Cardigan, Caermarthen, Caernarvon, Denbigh, Flint, Montgomery, Pembroke, and Radnor; and all the corresponding area-books published. There still remained, however, a sufficient number of Ordnance-maps to fill about 400 volumes—without of course counting uncompleted series—and these cannot be bound except at a further cost of nearly £300.

Arrangement of rooms.—By a grant from Convocation, two specially deep and strong cases were erected on the floor of the Logic School to receive the Pipe-Office rolls presented to the library in 1892, together with other rolls for which there was no proper accommodation. At the same time additional shelving was fitted up in the basement of the Sheldonian theatre, and a large part of the modern fiction removed thither.

The result of this accession of space in the Logic School was that for the first time within the present Librarian's tenure of office, and probably within a much longer period, the Bodleian building contained sufficient proper shelving for the books within its walls; and advantage was taken of this opportunity to carry out certain plans approved by the Curators, which for want of such shelving were previously incapable of being executed. The contents of the Oriental printed book room already more than filled the shelving contained in the room, while there was no possibility of carrying the overflow into either of the next rooms. In the same way the growing collection of Bibles and Prayer-books was placed between two rooms neither of which would be available for its ultimate extension. These sections were accordingly removed into the Gough wing (the miscellaneous periodicals being transferred to the Logic School in order to make room for them), and their places were taken by the Godwyn, Mortara, Hope, and Montagu collections, and by various sections of the library which were either 'closed' or capable of being closed. The result of these changes was to form a group of rooms containing a large number of miscellaneous collections in order of date; to secure those collections from all risk of having to be moved elsewhere at any future time owing to the increase of the library; to bring all the growing collections of printed books on the first floor into the same wing; and to provide room for their extension for a very considerable number of years.

On the same principle the duplicates and the growing section of Numismatics were transferred to the Gough wing, and the small room, leading out of the picture-gallery, which contained them was completely filled with the Marshall, Crynes, and St. Amand collections, and with other 'closed' sections of the library.

Some of these sections had been transferred from the gallery of the greatly overcrowded Law-room, and by shelving the unneeded central opening in each block on the floor additional space for about 2400 vols. was gained: the entire room was then restored to order, and considerable space left for future accessions. By the same expedient for obtaining additional shelving, relief was given to the overcrowded collection of music in the Music-school, and more space was obtained for the Ordnance-maps in the Map-room, which was for the first time brought into reasonably good order. The very large collection of Indian blue-books which were crowded in double rows into the gallery of this latter room were removed to the Logic-school, where proper accommodation was given to them and to the similar collections relating to various other countries.

By these and one or two minor changes almost all pressure in the Bodleian building was relieved, and in most cases for a sensible period. An exception must be made, however, as regards the sections of Bibliography and Palaeography: these must be kept as far as possible where they are easily accessible both to the staff and to readers, but there is almost no space left for their extension in the present reading-room.

The arrangement of the overcrowded Radcliffe Camera was in progress throughout the year. The gallery and lower reading-room were got into order, and a small part of the basement, when a stoppage occurred for want of space. Many thousands of volumes were then transferred to ground-floor rooms in the Bodleian—the chief sections moved being Sermons, Private Prayers, Religious Poetry, and Religious Fiction—and the work of arrangement was continued.

THE COIN-COLLECTION.

Chief donations of coins.—A very important gift was received from E. L. Hussey, Esq., F.R.C.S., who presented all those of his gold and silver British coins of which the Bodleian did not already possess good specimens. These were 95 in number, 4 of them being gold, and ranged from William I or II to Victoria. He also gave a gold coin of Philip V of Spain, a gold coin of John V of Portugal, and 5 English silver tokens—together with all his English brass or copper tokens not already represented in the Bodleian: it has not, however, been possible to ascertain as yet the extent of this last gift.

27 British coins of various metals, ranging from Edward III to George III, were received from the Librarian.

Finally a most interesting collection of 37 assignats of the French Revolution was presented by the Misses Swann: of this paper-money the Bodleian had scarcely any specimens.

Donations of war-medals.—The collection of war-medals was increased, out of the balance of the special grant from the Common University Fund, by the purchase of the 1st Afghan war Cabul medal, the Punjab medal for Chilianwala and Goojerat, and the Canton and Fatshan medal.

Donations of other medals.—A silver medal struck in commemoration of the Columbian celebration was presented through Her Majesty's Ambassador at Madrid by the Delegate-General of the Historico-American Exhibition.

Chief purchases.—23 Gaulish Æ and a few others were bought at auction for £1 4s., and 62 Anglo-Saxon stycas for £2 8s. The guinea of 1785 and the two-pound piece of 1823 were purchased privately. And the Mint supplied at cost price the imperial and colonial coins struck by it in 1891 and 1892.

Arrangement and cataloguing, &c.—Mr. Oman brought almost to completion his catalogue of the Anglo-Saxon coins. The Librarian arranged provisionally for consultation all the unarranged English coins from William I to Philip and Mary, 702 in number, dividing them under each reign, as far as was practicable, by towns and moneyers as well as by value. With the help of Mr. Hutt he sorted 252 coins of Elizabeth to Charles I for arrangement in 1894. And under his direction Mr. Hutt arranged by date and value 1133 unarranged coins from the Commonwealth to George III.

Personnel.—On Oct. 1 the Curators suffered the loss by death of one of their own number, the Rev. B. Jowett, Master of Balliol, and Regius Professor of Greek, who in the latter capacity had been an ex officio member of their Board since 1855. On Oct. 28 the Curators unanimously passed the following resolution:—‘The Curators on the occasion of their first ordinary meeting after the death of their colleague, the late Regius Professor of Greek, desire to place on record their recognition of the valuable services rendered to the Library by Professor Jowett. During the 38 years of his curatorship he has devoted himself with unabated zeal to the affairs of the Library, and energetically promoted all plans intended to perfect its organization and extend its usefulness. His active and conciliatory co-operation will long be missed in the future deliberations of the Board.’

It may be mentioned that the gift of the Shelley collection had been offered through Prof. Jowett, and that his last visit to the Library was made on June 13, when Lady Shelley, accompanied by him, presented the collection.

The ex officio curatorship which became vacant by Prof. Jowett's death was filled by the appointment of Mr. Bywater to the Professorship. As Prof. Bywater had previously been an elected Curator, a vacancy for an elected Curator was thus created, and had not been filled before the end of the year.

Financial summary.—The year opened with a balance of £245 12s. 7d.; but of this £121 7s. was a balance from the special grant for work on arrears, and of the general balance of £124 5s. 7d. a sum of £101 10s. 7d. belonged to the MS. reserve-fund.

The year closed with a balance of £181 14s. 4d.; but of this £82 2s. 6d. were balances from special grants from the Common University Fund, and out of the balance of £99 11s. 10d. which remains £96 5s. 5d. belongs to the MS. reserve-fund.

All Souls' was still unable to make any contribution to the funds of the library, but special grants from the Delegates of the Common Fund and from Convocation enabled arrears of various kinds to be further reduced.

(For Qualifications see below.)

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

- Attention is directed to the following Special features:—
1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
 2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
 3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
 4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
 5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.
 6. Assured Members have therefore absolute security, with the prospect of the continuance of a high rate of Bonus.

"§ 4. Regulations under which Decrees which propose to appropriate sums of money exceeding one hundred pounds shall be submitted to Congregation.

"1. Every decree which proposes to appropriate a sum of money exceeding one hundred pounds shall contain a preamble stating shortly the purpose to which it is proposed to appropriate the sum of money, and an enacting part, consisting of one or more clauses or sections, carrying out in detail the purpose of the decree.

6. Voting on Statute.

The following form of Statute, which was approved by Congregation on Tuesday, May 15, will be submitted to the House:—

WHEREAS it is expedient to make certain verbal alterations in Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. VII, Of holding an Examination in Preventive Medicine, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. VII. (p. 155, ed. 1893), in clause 4, line 9, the words "by the General Medical Council and" shall be struck out.

2. Ibid., line 10, the words "at least six months studying under a Medical Officer of Health partly of the other" shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: "study, of not less than six months in all, under the Medical Officer of Health of a county or of a city or town containing at least 50,000 inhabitants, or under two or more such Medical Officers of Health."

7. Presentation of Report.

The following Sixth Annual Report of the Curators of the Botanic Garden (for the year 1893) will be presented to the House:—

IN accordance with the provisions of the Statute of May 8, 1888, the Curators of the Botanic Garden beg leave to present their Report for 1893 to the House of Convocation.

The accounts of the Garden are included in the audited University Accounts annually laid before Convocation, in which accounts a detailed schedule will be found.

The Curators regret that the accounts again show a deficit, amounting this year to £190 2s. 11d.

It will be remembered that the University auditors state at page 15, Abstract of University Accounts for the year 1892 (Botanic Garden): "The Auditors desire to call attention to the apparent inadequacy of the income of the Garden to meet the ordinary expenditure of the Department." The experiences of the current year have more than justified this prognostication, and it is only by the help of an overdraft at their bankers that the Curators have been able to meet their liabilities at the close of the year, leaving an adverse balance of about £200, as shown in the published accounts.

This state of things is the result of a reduction in income due to the decreasing payment by the University to the Curators under the head of Rents and Profits of Estates. The Curators received from this source £376 4s. 8d. in 1889, and only £198 8s. 6d. in 1893, a reduction of £177 16s. 2d.

The outlay for warming and lighting, repairs and additions for 1893, is much below that of previous years (1889-92), in consequence of all liabilities previous to January, 1893, being brought into the 1892 Account.

Altogether the expenditure for the year shows a reduction of somewhat over £100, but the Curators feel that too much importance must not be attached to this, as the year, owing to the building operations, must be regarded as an abnormal one.

In the opinion of the Curators it will be impossible to maintain the Garden adequately on the existing endowment in its present reduced state, and it will be necessary to call on the University, at no distant date, to consider whether a moderate annual subvention, such as is granted to the other Scientific Departments in the University, should not be made, to place the Garden on a satisfactory financial basis.

It may be pointed out that the Botanical Department is now an important and growing branch of the Natural Science School. The number of Students amounted last Term to 36, and this year the Professor has made proprio motu a contribution of £50 to the funds of the Garden from the fees of the Students, without which the deficit on the Garden must of course have been larger by that amount.

A. The Report upon the Garden, which has been prepared with the assistance of the Sherardian Professor of Botany and the Head Gardener, is as follows:—

It is scarcely worth while on this occasion to distinguish between the work of the in-door and out-door departments, as the whole work of the Garden has been disarranged by the demolition of the old plant-houses and the erection of the new ones. This has involved a great deal of extra labour: in-doors all the plants have had to be removed and replaced, and advantage was taken of the opportunity thus offered for thoroughly cleaning them: out-doors a considerable amount of turf had to be removed from the site of the new houses, and this has been made use of for making up the worn verges in other parts of the Garden.

The builders (Messrs. Boyd, of Paisley) began their work in May, 1893, and by November the range of houses, which includes the Palm-House and the Succulent House, was completed and occupied. These houses have proved, during the winter, satisfactory in all respects.

Very little has been done this year in the way of repairs beyond the repairing and re-cementing of the two ponds.

B. Exchanges and Acquisitions. During the past year about 235 plants and 1170 packets of seeds have been contributed to the Garden by the following Botanic Gardens and other contributors; and a return has been made to most of them—about 330 plants and 2165 packets of seeds having been distributed:—Antwerp, Belgrade, Berlin, Birmingham, Bonn, Bordeaux, Breslau, Brunswick, Brussels, Bucharest, Caen, Cambridge, Cambridge, Massachusetts, U.S.A., Catania, Copenhagen, Clausenberg, Dresden, Dublin (Trinity College), Edinburgh, Florence, Geneva (Jardin alpin d'acclimatation), Ghent, Glasnevin, Grenoble, Hamburg, Helsingfors, Karlsruhe, Kew, Kiel, Leipzig, Lemberg, Leyden, Liège, Lille, Lyon, Madrid, Marseille, Montpellier, Munich, Odessa, Palermo, Paris (Musée d'Hist. D. Opening of the Garden. The Garden was opened to the public on Sundays, between the hours of 11.30 a.m. and 6 p.m., from April 23 to the end of September. Acting on the experience of former years, the Curators obtained from the Corporation the services of a Police-constable, to be in attendance on Sunday afternoons from 2 to 6 p.m., with the most satisfactory results.

Signed on behalf of the Curators,

T. HERBERT WARREN,
(President of Magdalen College),
Chairman.

EDWARD CHAPMAN,
(Fellow of Magdalen College),

BOTANIC GARDEN,
May 14, 1894.

8. Decrees.

That the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties be authorized to receive the name of Mr. JOGES CHANDRA CHAUDHURI of New College as a Candidate in the Final Honour School of Jurisprudence, but that Mr. Chaudhuri be not allowed to supplicate for the Degree of B.A. until he shall have passed either the Examination of Candidates not seeking Honours in the First Public Examination or the Preliminary Examination in the School of Jurisprudence, or the Preliminary Examination in Mechanics and Physics in the School of Natural Science.

Note.—Mr. Chaudhuri passed the Preliminary Examination in Chemistry in Michaelmas Term, 1892, and the Examination in Holy Scripture or substituted matter in Trinity Term, 1893. In December, 1892, he received a Certificate from the Secretary to the Delegates of Local Examinations that he had complied with the provisions of Statt. Tit. II. Sect. VII. cl. 4 (b), (p. 9, ed. 1893) and was matriculated. As he has not fully satisfied the conditions under which persons are excused from passing the First Public Examination, Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. cl. 3 (p. 92), the above form of decree is proposed to remove a doubt which has been raised as to his qualifications for admission to the Final School of Jurisprudence, and to settle the conditions under which he can be admitted to a Degree.

That notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in Statt. Tit. XIX. § 1. cl. 2, the Secretary to the Boards of Faculties be authorized to receive the names of Candidates for examination in Preventive Medicine on payment of a fee of Five Pounds for each part of the Examination for which a Candidate shall offer himself.

That a sum not exceeding £21 be granted to the Professor of Geology for binding certain publications of the Palæontographical Society, for the use of his Department.

Note.—The Professor has purchased for his Department a complete copy of the above-named publications, so far as they have already appeared, partly out of the fees of his Department, partly at his own expense; and it is his intention to continue to present the succeeding volumes, as they appear year by year. The entire number of volumes which now require binding is ninety-six, and it is estimated that the proposed sum will cover the expense. The publications are, and are likely to continue to be, of the greatest service to the Department.

The following Annual Report of the Curators of the Sheldonian Theatre for the year 1893 will be presented to the House:—

During the year 1893 the Theatre was used for non-academical purposes as follows:—For Concerts by the United Philharmonic and Choral Societies, and by the Oxford Musical Club; for a Classical Concert arranged by Mr. J. Russell; for a Concert under the direction of the Oxford Teachers' Association; and for a Children's Concert in connexion with the Diocesan Branch of the Church of England Temperance Society. Also for a meeting in aid of the funds of the Radcliffe Infirmary, presided over by the Chancellor of the University; and for the annual meeting of the Oxford Diocesan Conference.

4. Decrees.

(1)

That for the purpose of providing the funds required for the objects proposed in the forms of decree respecting the University Galleries [(3) and (4) on page 502], or in either of them, the Curators of the University Chest be authorized, provided the decrees or decree shall have been approved by Convocation, to sell a competent portion of so much as shall remain (after providing for the purposes named in Decree (2) of February 13, 1894) of a sum of £6,558 os. 7d. Consols, representing a fund appropriated by the University in 1845 to the purposes of the University Galleries, and that they be further authorized to provide, in such manner as they may think fit, for replacing within a period not exceeding twenty years from the date of sale the stock to be so sold, and for recouping the University Galleries during the same period for any loss of income arising from such sale.

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding £70 on (1) cleaning and colouring the western end of the basement of the University Galleries, (2) removing and reconstructing the existing partitions in the basement, and (3) providing a washing-place for servants.

Note.—The Curators of the Galleries report that the School of Art, in connexion with the Science and Art Department, which has for many years occupied the greater part of the basement of the University Galleries, will remove to the City Technical School in St. Ebbe's in the course of the next month.

(1) Cleaning. In the room hitherto occupied by the School of Art, and in the whole of the western end of the basement, the ceiling and walls are very dirty. These rooms were not touched when the larger part of the building was cleaned and painted in 1891. The expense is estimated at £36 15s.

(2) Partitions. By the removal and reconstruction (with glazed lights, where necessary) of the partitions which at present enclose the School of Art, a considerable increase of light can be obtained in the basement. The Curators of the Galleries have under consideration a scheme for making the best use of the space about to be set free by the removal of the School of Art. The expense of altering the partitions is estimated at about £15.

(3) Servants' washing-place. This is much needed, and a good place can be found at the eastern end of the basement. The expense is estimated at £12 15s.

II. CONGREGATION OF THE UNIVERSITY.

14. In Statt. Tit. XIX. § 1. cl. 10 (p. 261), after the words “Oriental Studies” shall be added the words “and to each Examiner in the Honour School of English Language and Literature.”

2. Promulgation of Statutes.

The following forms of Statute will be promulgated:—

WHEREAS it is expedient to change the day on which the Proctors are admitted to office, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

In Statt. Tit. XVII. Sect. IV. § 4. cl. 1 (p. 247, ed. 1893), the words from "Die Mercurii" to "constitutum fuerit" shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: "In Termino S. Hilarii, die Mercurii in nona hebdomade pleni termini, sicut hoc verbum in Statt. Tit. VI. Sect. I. E. § 9. cl. 6" (p. 140) "definitum est."

Note.—The object of this Statute is to transfer the admission of the Proctors from the first day of Easter Term, which now frequently occurs in the middle of the Easter Vacation, to the Wednesday in the ninth week of Full Term, which will fall just outside the period of residence usually kept by Under-graduates.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the provisions of the Statute Concerning the Congregation of the University, so far as relates to the regulations for giving notice of amendments, THE UNIVERSITY ENACTS AS FOLLOWS.

1. In Statt. Tit. X. Sect. III. § 2 (p. 211, ed. 1893), cl. 4 shall be struck out, and the following clause shall be substituted:—

"In case the preamble of a Statute is approved by Congregation, amendments signed by a proposer and a seconder may be transmitted to the Registrar within two days."

2. Ibid., cl. 6, the words "The Council may, at the same time and on the same paper, print any amendments which they may think fit to propose, as amendments proposed by Council," shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: "The Council also may propose amendments"

3. Ibid., cl. 8, the words "no notice of amendment has been given" shall be struck out, and the following words shall be substituted: "no amendment has been proposed."

Note.—Clause 1 dispenses with giving viva voce notice of amendments.

Clause 2 is a verbal change. The existing words may seem to limit the power of the Council (contrary to Statt. Tit. X. Sect. III. § 1. cl. 3), in moving amendments to occasions on which amendments have already been proposed by members of Congregation.

3. Decrees.

The following forms of Decree will be proposed, under the provisions of the Statute approved by Her Majesty in Council, March 10, 1894:—

WHEREAS it is expedient to augment temporarily the annual sum granted to the Delegates of the University Museum for the general expenses of the Museum, THE UNIVERSITY DECREES AS FOLLOWS.

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to pay to the Delegates of the University Museum for the general expenses of the Museum the sum of £140 for each of the years beginning January 1, 1894, 1895.

Note.—The Delegates report that the statutable grant of £560 a year for the general expenses of the Museum has become insufficient for the requirements of the Museum, the expenditure on fuel, wages, lighting, &c., having considerably increased.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for certain special expenditure at the Botanic Garden in connexion with the erection of the New Houses, THE UNIVERSITY DECREES AS FOLLOWS.

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to pay to the Curators of the Botanic Garden a sum not exceeding £200, to provide for expenses incurred in connexion with the erection of the New Houses in the Garden.

NOTE.

ST. MARY MAGDALEN COLLEGE,
Whit Monday, 1894.

DEAR MR. VICE-CHANCELLOR,

Botanic Garden. Application for Special Grant.

I am desired by the Curators of the Botanic Garden to make application to the Hebdomadal Council for a special extra Grant, not to exceed £200, to meet the cost of certain special expenses which have been incurred in connexion with the erection and completion of the new Houses in the Botanic Garden. I enclose a copy of a minute including a schedule drawn up by Professor Vines which will show the amount and nature of these expenses. It will be seen, I think, that they followed almost inevitably on the completion of the new Houses and yet could hardly be included in the estimate for the same. The Curators of the Chest, who have of course superintended the completion of the Houses according to the estimate adopted, did not see their way to include these.

The gas engine should be considered separately. That is an extraordinary, and may be called accidental, expense. It occurred in consequence of the old engine suddenly becoming worn out. It may be noted that the gas engine pumps up all the water for the Garden, for which water the City Company proposed to charge the Garden £200 per annum. The last engine went on for some fifteen years, I believe. It may be hoped that this will last still longer.

The Curators I need not say are very loth to come upon the University with this appeal, but they really have no alternative, and can only hope that the University will recognize and relieve their need.

I ought to add that the appeal would have been submitted to the Council earlier had it not been that the Professor was detained abroad.

I have the honour to be,

Your obedient servant,

HERBERT WARREN,

Chairman of the Curators.

EXTRACT FROM THE MINUTES of a meeting of the Curators of the Botanic Garden held on May 14, 1894:

"Professor Vines presented a report of expenditure still necessary for the completion of the work in and about the new Houses, including a new gas engine. The items are given below.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide improved means of lighting the "Raffaelle" and "Eldon" Rooms at the University Galleries, THE UNIVERSITY DECREES AS FOLLOWS.

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to expend a sum not exceeding £675, in carrying out designs prepared by Mr. Ewan Christian for lighting the "Raffaelle" and "Eldon" rooms at the University Galleries from the roof, and for increasing the wall-space in the former room available for the hanging of pictures.

NOTE.—I. Raffaelle Room. This is the room on the first floor of the University Galleries over the Sculpture Gallery. Prior to recent alterations, it was lighted by five windows on the north side overlooking what was a builder's yard, but is now part of the site of the New Museum. The building of the New Museum has rendered it necessary completely to block up the easternmost window of the Raffaelle Gallery. The walls of the court-yard commanded by the windows have been faced with glazed white bricks in order to compensate for the loss of light to this and other rooms, but the Curators of the Galleries are of opinion that the qualities of the room as a gallery for hanging pictures have been so seriously impaired, that it is necessary to find some new method of lighting it. In deference to this view the Curators of the Chest consulted Mr. Christian, the architect of the new National Portrait Gallery. He advises that all the remaining windows, except the one at the west end, should be permanently blocked, and that the room should be lighted from the roof. In this way much more wall-space will be provided than at present, and it is considered that the lighting of the room will be greatly improved. The expense of the alterations, including architect's fees and a provision for unforeseen contingencies, is estimated to amount to £425. The President of Trinity College has kindly undertaken to bear the expense of lining the walls with wood, as recommended by the architect.

II. Eldon Room. This is a square room at the head of the principal staircase, and forms a vestibule to the Raffaelle room. It, too, was formerly lighted by a window looking north, which window has been entirely blocked by the New Museum. Mr. Moore, the architect of the Museum, had intended to light the room by a small skylight in the roof, but the Curators of the Galleries considered that this would be insufficient, and Mr. Christian has accordingly prepared a plan for reconstructing the roof in such a way as to give a good light to pictures hung on the walls. The cost of this work is estimated at about £250.

WHEREAS it is expedient to arrange in the Sculpture Gallery at the University Galleries the Arundel, Pomfret, and other ancient sculptures, THE UNIVERSITY DECREES AS FOLLOWS.

That the Curators of the University Chest be authorized to pay to the Lincoln and Merton Professor of Classical Archæology a sum not exceeding £150, for the purpose of moving and mounting the Arundel, Pomfret, and other ancient sculptures.

Note.—The Hebdomadal Council has received the following statement from Professor Gardner:—

Report as to the placing of the Arundel and Pomfret Marbles.

The Lincoln and Merton Professor, to whom is assigned by statute (IV. II. F. 12) the charge of the Arundel and Pomfret Marbles, begs to lay the following statement before Council.

At present the inscriptions belonging to these collections are arranged in the basement of the University Galleries. The statues are at present unarranged, but stored in various corners of the ground floor, gallery, and basement.

Within the past seven years a considerable sum has been spent in arresting the decay of these sculptures, and in their repair; but no opportunity has arisen for their arrangement, except in temporary fashion, and their temporary arrangement has been destroyed by the recent abolition of the large recess opposite the main door. At present, therefore, they may be said to be merely lying about.

Within a few months the long gallery on the ground floor of the University Galleries will be left quite vacant, in consequence of the transfer of all the casts at present stored in it (as agreed to by the Curators) to a series of rooms in the new buildings, in which they can be properly arranged for educational use. It is proposed by the Professor, with the approval of the Curators, to occupy the gallery thus left vacant with the Arundel and Pomfret sculptures, and other sculptures belonging to the University. Unless the gallery is thus occupied, it will remain entirely vacant, except as to its two ends, in which the marbles will remain huddled together as now. The Professor feels that Council will regard this alternative as impossible.

A small grant is required to carry out the re-arrangement. A few slate shelves and wooden stands will be necessary; and the moving of the heavy sculptures, some of which must be brought up from the basement, will involve the use of tackle and the employment of a powerful gang of labourers. As the re-arrangement has nothing to do with the new buildings or the Ashmolean Museum, the necessary grant cannot come from the Fortnum Fund.

PERCY GARDNER.

SOCIETY.
Founded 1762.]
THE OLDEST MUTUAL LIFE OFFICE IN EXISTENCE.

THE Society, being purely Mutual, has no occasion to sacrifice part of the Policy-holders' profits in order to provide Shareholders with dividends; and, paying no commission to Solicitors or other Agents, commends itself to those who are able, without the assistance of an Agent, to form an opinion as to its merits.
The Directors are permitted to offer, as an illustration of the Society's operations, the striking case of THE LATE MASTER OF BALLIOL, who was assured with the Society. His policies, with their remarkable results, are detailed below:—

| Date of Policy. | Amount. | Total Premiums paid. | Claims paid, being the sum assured and added bonuses. |

| 1849 ... | 1,500 | ... 1,926 | ... 4,057 |
| 1850 ... | 1,000 | ... 1,257 | ... 2,610 |
| Totals | £5,000 | ... £6,087 | ... £13,747 |

As stated above, the Society has no Agents, and allows no commission to persons introducing business. The following gentlemen, however, being members of the Society, kindly permit reference to themselves by members of the University wishing to obtain information as to the Society's terms:—
The Rev. Dr. BARTHOLOMEW PRICE, Master of Pembroke College.

JUNE 12.

H. BOYD,

DELEGATES' ROOM,
June 5, 1894.

I. CONVOCATION.

1. Presentation of Report.

The following Report of the Visitors of the Ashmolean Museum for the year 1893 will be presented to the House:—

The Relics from Khuenaten's Palace.

THE year 1893 has been specially productive of acquisitions to the Egyptian and Early Greek sections of the Museum. Thanks to the liberality of Professor Flinders Petrie and his colleague Mr. H. Martyn Kennard, the more important objects derived from the excavation of Khuenaten's Palace at Tel-el-Amarna have been deposited in the Ashmolean Museum. From their bulk it has been impossible to exhibit more than a few specimens in the old building, but when the new Ashmolean building is completed, it is hoped that they will be adequately displayed at the end of the First Room. This will make Oxford a centre of interest for what, from the European standpoint, owing to its intimate connexion with Mykênæan culture, is the most important epoch of Egyptian art.

Interesting Egyptian Stelæ from the North Temple at Wady Halfa have also been presented by Capt. H. G. Lyons, R.E.

Hittite Seals.

The unique Collection of Hittite Seals in the Ashmolean Museum has been enriched by two remarkable acquisitions. One is the silver boss of a seal, the other a hæmatite cylinder representing the dedication of a child to Istar—a fitting pendant to the bilingual cylinder of Indilimma. It is a masterpiece of the engraver's art, and is interesting not only from the subject, but from the typical character of the costumes and accessory symbols. From its parallelism with the Indilimma cylinder it can be dated about 2000 B.C.

Mykênæan and Primitive Greek Antiquities.

During a visit to Greece in the spring, the Keeper was able to secure a valuable series of objects illustrative of the Mykênæan and Primitive periods. Amongst these are the contents of some early tombs from Amorgos, in which early bronze implements are associated with ornaments of silver, steatite, and other materials, and with an interesting series of primitive images of marble and ivory, which seem to be the prototypes of later Greek forms. These finds probably date from the Third Millennium B.C. He was also able to procure the contents of a Mykênæan Tholos on Hymettos, and a series of early terra-cotta figures from Bœotia, illustrating the transition from Mykênæan to archaic Greek forms, and a bronze tripod-plate from Olympia, which must rank among the finest specimens of the geometrical style of metal-work to be seen outside Greece. The series of Early Greek fibulæ has been also largely increased, and some welcome accessions to this part of the Collection, and the acquisition of numerous stone implements, chiefly from the Greek Islands, have been due to kind co-operation of Mr. John Myres, the Craven Fellow, who has also presented some Mykênæan gems from Crete and a primitive marble figure from Amorgos.

Additions to the Collection of Greek Vases.

Important additions have been also made to the Collection of Greek Vases, amongst the most noteworthy being that on which the potter Oikophelês commemorates his handicraft in a rude hexameter, the Kylix with the name and effigy of Kleinias, the father of Alkibiadês, and another with the signature of the artist Hermogenês, and a white lekythos with a mourning scene of great pathos from the Kerameikos at Athens.

The Catalogue of Ashmolean Vases.

The event of the year however in this department has been the publication of an illustrated Vase Catalogue by Professor Gardner, with fine drawings of the more important pieces by Mr. Anderson. The Keeper has also co-operated in the work, and has supplied a special section on the Vases procured by him at Gela (Terranova) in Sicily, and on the forms of sepulture with which they were associated. The publication of the Vase Catalogue is the more a subject for congratulation, that a few years since the Ashmolean Museum had practically no Vase Collection to catalogue. The policy of concentrating the Archæological Collections of the University in the Ashmolean Museum, and the great efforts made on the part of the Museum itself in recent years to add to the Collection of Greek Vases, which, more almost than any other series of objects, are here of direct educational value, have thus borne welcome fruit. The Vase Collection has been re-arranged in accordance with the Catalogue.

Proposed Catalogue of the Italian Majolica by Dr. Fortnum.

A further subject for congratulation must be the fact that Dr. Fortnum is at present engaged in drawing up a Catalogue of the magnificent collection of Italian Majolica presented by him to the Museum, and which it is to be hoped will shortly form the material for a new volume of the Museum Oxoniense. In its bearing on this Department of our Collections, the acquisition by the Museum of an Italo-Greek terra-cotta lamp, found at Vico Equense, is of great interest. It bears a relief of a bearded Satyr drinking, which is in every detail the original of a Renaissance bronze relief in Dr. Fortnum's Collection formerly attributed to Donatello.

A considerable number of portfolios and solander cases for containing prints and drawings were purchased, and the drawings by Claude and Adrian Van Ostade were mounted.

The annual grants of £50 for additional service and of £150 for working expenses were renewed for two years longer.

The carrying out of the plans of the new Ashmolean Museum—plans for which the Curators of the Galleries cannot regard themselves as in any way responsible—so seriously impaired the lighting of the Raffaele Room, that it became a necessity, in the opinion of the Curators, to find some new method of lighting it. They accordingly made representations to the Curators of the Chest, that it was desirable to ask an expert to prepare a plan of lighting in which attention should be paid to the architectural character of the room, and Mr. Christian, the architect of the new National Portrait Gallery, was requested to advise both on this matter and on the lighting of the Eldon Room, the provisions for which on the plans of the new Museum appeared to be inadequate. The Curators of the Galleries also had before them the question of the lighting of the north end of the large Picture Gallery, and resolved that it was desirable to have the roof of the new gallery, on the side next to the Picture Gallery, constructed wholly of glass, and to make the access between the two Galleries through the openings of the present windows, by removing the frames and the wall below the window-sills.

Another matter arising out of the new Ashmolean Museum was the question of the future management of the two Institutions now about to be placed under one roof. A Committee of Curators, in consultation with Mr. Arthur Evans and Professor Gardner, drafted certain recommendations as to the constitution of the Board of Management, and the arrangements with regard to the Ashmolean, Archæological, and the Eldon Art Libraries. The recommendations of the Committee were approved by the Curators.

During the progress of the building it was thought that the Galleries required extra protection at night, and a night-watchman has been employed for some months, the expense being borne by the Fortnum Fund. In view of the proposed installation of the electric light in the new Museum, representations were made to the Curators of the Chest that it was desirable that the question of lighting the whole or part of the older building by electricity should be considered.

An exhibition of the engraved work of Albert Durer was held at the Galleries during the summer and autumn. The engravings were arranged in the chronological order of Mr. Middleton Wake's recent catalogue, and notes written by two of the Curators were appended. A few Durer drawings, some examples of forgeries, and a selection of Durer woodcuts were included in the exhibition. The Curators desire to express their warmest acknowledgements of the kindness of Professor Odling, who placed his fine Collection of Durer engravings at the disposal of the Committee, and so enabled them to make the series complete, with the exception of one or two examples which are so rare as to be practically unattainable.

Regulations respecting Collections not ordinarily exhibited were issued, appointing two afternoons in each week at which visitors could have access to the Collection of Raffaele and Michel Angelo drawings, and stating that special arrangements would be made as far as was practicable for visitors whose time in Oxford was limited.

A mould was made of the Samian metrological relief, and casts were taken, which were purchased by the Archæological Museums of Bonn, Dresden and Heidelberg. Permission was given to the Mayor of Liverpool to have a cast taken from the cast of the statue of Mr. Roscoe, the statue at Liverpool having been broken. Permission was also given to Miss Acland, Mr. Allen (Mr. Ruskin's publisher), and Mr. W. L. Schreiber, to photograph certain drawings and prints. Photographs of a few selected drawings were taken by the University Press, under the superintendence of a Committee of Curators appointed for the purpose, and the results attained were fairly satisfactory.

Complaints having been made of the crowding which occurred at the Public Lectures delivered by the Slade Professor of Fine Art to persons not being members of the University, arrangements were made providing that admission to these lectures should be by ticket only.

The number of visitors to the Galleries during the year 1893 was 7,597.

DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICAL ARCHÆOLOGY.

The annual grant of £150 from the Common University Fund, for casts and books, has not been entirely expended, as the disarrangement produced by the building in progress has made the purchase of new casts hitherto undesirable. The Professor is now expending all the money available in the acquisition of casts from Athens and the European museums, in order to form as good a series as possible in the new rooms.

Among the acquisitions of 1893 the following may be mentioned :—

CASTS : Heads of Mausolus and Apollo, from the Mausoleum (purchased). A head from the Argive Heraeum (presented by Lady Evans).

A restoration of the designs on the Chest of Cypselus, planned by Mr. H. Stuart Jones, and drawn by Mr. F. Anderson (presented by Professor Gardner and Mr. Stuart Jones).

BOOKS PURCHASED : Kavvadias, Fouilles d'Epidaure; Hartwig, Meisterschalen; Furtwängler, Meisterwerke der griechischen Plastik; Philippson, Der Peloponnes; Ritschl, Priscæ Latinitatis monumenta epigraphica; Rangabê, Lexicon of Greek Antiquities; several parts of the Collection Barracco, Brunn's Denkmäler, Collection Tyszkiewicz, Daremberg and Saglio's Dictionnaire des Antiquités; the whole of the American Journal of Archaeology; and other works.

At present marbles and casts alike are in disorder, and the books have been temporarily removed to the Curators' room; but lecturing has proceeded without interruption, and preparations have been made for the transfer of both casts and books to the ground floor galleries of the new Ashmolean building.

4. Presentation of Report.

The following Annual Report of the Curators of the Indian Institute for 1893-94 will be presented to the House :—

The extension of the building, which completes the west front, adding one large lecture-room and increasing the library to more than double its previous size, was finished during the course of the Long Vacation of 1893. This partial completion of the Institute was informally inaugurated by Sir M. Monier-Williams on June 2, 1894. On that occasion Sir William Hunter, K.C.S.I., delivered a lecture on India to a large audience. On the same occasion Sir M. Monier-Williams announced that he had, within the last few days, received from the Thakore Sahib of Gondal (upon whom the University conferred the Honorary Degree of D.C.L. in 1892) a munificent offer to complete the building at his own cost.

Sir M. Monier-Williams at the same time expressed the intention of presenting at once to the Institute his own Oriental library of between 3,000 and 4,000 volumes, containing a large number of very valuable Oriental works. Thus not only will the original design as approved by the University be fully carried out, but the Institute will possess an excellent library which cannot fail to be of great advantage to the Oriental students in the University.

In view of the fact that the annual endowment of £300 paid by the University had been shown to be insufficient to meet the increased expenses resulting from the extension of the Institute building, Convocation, on February 20, 1894, sanctioned an additional grant of £50 a year from the Boden Fund for five years, to be applied to the general expenses of the Institute. This decree is to remain in force from January 1, 1894.

During the latter half of last Long Vacation the books were re-arranged according to subjects and now fill the whole of the lower part of the library. The shelves in the gallery, which are empty, are capable of holding several thousand volumes.

Considerable progress has been made with the Catalogue since last Michaelmas Term. About 2,500 slips have been written out since then, making, when mounted and bound, six new volumes.

The Catalogue of the general library, which comprises works on Indian languages, besides Persian and Arabic, as well as Indian History, Archæology, Epigraphy, Geography, Administration and Law, has thus been completed. It is hoped that about 1,500 volumes of the Malan library, which still have to be included, will be finished in the Long Vacation. The Authors' Catalogue ought to be ready a few months after the completion of the Subject Catalogue. There is no reason why this work should not be finished by the end of the present year.

The usefulness of the library has been increased by a new set of regulations which came into force at the commencement of the current Term. Members of the University, as well as others residing in Oxford for purposes connected with Oriental studies, are thereby enabled to borrow books from the library. Several persons, both graduates and undergraduates, have already availed themselves of this privilege.

The annual interest of the Batty Fund, amounting to £19 6s. 8d., has now become payable for the purposes of the library. Sir William Markby has moreover granted a subvention of £50 for three years, commencing April 1, 1894, and applicable to the requirements of the library. It will therefore now for the first time be possible not only to purchase the most important works on Oriental subjects as they are published, but also to fill up the gaps which have hitherto impaired the usefulness of the library.

5. Voting on Statute.

The following form of Statute, which was approved by Congregation on Tuesday, May 29, will be submitted to the House:—

MAGDALEN COLLEGE.

I. NATURAL SCIENCE DEMYSHIPS.

There will be an Election at this College in October this year, 1894, to One or more DEMYSHIPS in NATURAL SCIENCE.

Persons will be eligible for the Demyships who will not have exceeded the age of nineteen years on the day of election, October 15, 1894.

The stipend of the Demyships is £80 per annum, inclusive of all allowances; and they are tenable in the first instance for two years. At the expiration of two years the tenure of each Demyship is to be renewed for a further term of two years, provided that the Tutorial Board shall have declared themselves satisfied with the industry and good conduct of the holder: and at the end of the second period of two years it may be extended for one year longer, if for special reasons the Tutorial Board deem it advisable to do so.

2. EXHIBITIONS.

Exhibitions may also be offered to Candidates who fail to obtain Demyships, but appear to the electors to be in need of support at the University and otherwise deserving.

Persons will be eligible for these Exhibitions who will not have exceeded the age of twenty-one years on the day of election, October 15, 1894.

Their value and tenure is left entirely at the discretion of the electors in each year. As a rule they have been of the value of from £25 to £50 per annum.

Candidates for these Demyships and Exhibitions will be required to pass such an examination in Classics and Mathematics as will show their ability to pass hereafter in Responsions or an equivalent Examination.

Persons elected will be required, subject to the regulations of the College, to follow a definite line of study, and to present themselves in due course for the University Examinations prescribed for Candidates for the degree of B.A.

The tenure of both Demyships and Exhibitions will begin in October, 1895, when, and not before, Candidates will be expected to commence their residence.

All Candidates are requested to call on the President of Magdalen College, or his representative, on Monday, October 8, between the hours of 9 and 10 P.M., bringing with them (1) a certificate of birth; (2) a written testimonial to character from their Head Master, Tutor, or other person qualified to speak.

The examination will commence at 9.30 A.M. on Tuesday, October 9.

TRINITY COLLEGE.

An Examination will commence in this College on Thursday, November 29, 1894, at 9.30 A.M., for the purpose of filling up FOUR SCHOLARSHIPS of the annual value of £80, inclusive of all privileges and allowances.

Candidates must not have exceeded the age of 19 years on the day of election.

Exhibitions of such number and value (not exceeding £80) as the College may determine may also be awarded on this examination. There is no limit of age for the Exhibitions.

The Scholarships and Exhibitions will be awarded for proficiency in Classics, except that in the case of one Scholarship excellence in Mathematics may have weight. Besides the papers usually set in Classical Scholarship Examinations, there will be optional papers in Greek and Latin Verse and in translation from French and German. The Mathematical papers will also be optional. The examination will be held in common with Wadham College, and every Candidate will be considered as standing at both Colleges, unless he makes a statement to the contrary on putting down his name.

Every Scholarship is tenable in the first instance for two years, and will be prolonged for two years more, if the President and Fellows are satisfied with the industry and good conduct of the Scholar. For special reasons it may be prolonged for a fifth year.

The Scholarships and Exhibitions are tenable by Candidates desiring to enter the Indian Civil Service.

Any Candidates for a Scholarship who may desire to enter their names for residence as Commoners in October, 1895, can be admitted on this examination in lieu of the ordinary entrance examination.

Candidates may on entering their names give notice to the President that they desire only the rights and privileges without the emoluments of a Scholar. If any such Candidate is elected to a Scholarship the College Statutes provide that he shall be regarded as an Honorary Scholar, the whole number of vacancies being filled up if suitable Candidates present themselves, as if no such Honorary Scholar had been elected.

Candidates are requested to call on the President on Wednesday, November 28, between 5 and 6, or 9 and 10 P.M., and to present testimonials of good conduct and certificates of the date of their birth.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

SCHOLARSHIP EXAMINATION, 1894.

An Examination for TWO OPEN CLASSICAL SCHOLARSHIPS will be held by this College, beginning on Thursday, December 6.

The value of the Scholarships is £80 a year. They are tenable in the first instance for two years, but in the case of all scholars whose conduct and industry are satisfactory this term will be prolonged to four years, to which for special reasons a fifth may be added.

The Warden and Fellows have power to give Exhibitions of £30 or £40 a year, without limit of age, tenable on the same conditions as the Scholarships, to candidates who do well in the examination.

The papers will be those usually set in classical scholarship examinations, with the addition of passages for translation from French and German, but this paper, as well as those in Greek and Latin Verse, is optional. Mathematical papers will also be set, and in the election to one at least of the Scholarships special weight will be given to them. Those who offer Mathematics will have the opportunity of doing most of the Classical papers, but a candidate of real excellence in Mathematics may be elected without showing more knowledge of Classics than is necessary for Responsions. The Mathematical papers are optional for the Classical candidates. No papers in Natural Science will be set, but in the election to one of the Exhibitions preference will be given to any candidate who shall undertake to read for honours in Natural Science from the time of his admission into College, and to proceed to a degree in Medicine in the University of Oxford.

The examination, which will be held in common with Trinity College, will begin on Thursday, November 29, at 9.30 A.M., and will probably occupy four and a half days.

Candidates are requested to call on the Warden on Wednesday, November 28, at 5 P.M., bringing testimonials of good conduct, and certificates of the date of their birth.

Another Classical Scholarship on the Field-Marshal Gomm Foundation will be offered, for which preference is to be given to Candidates who are related to the Marquis of Lothian, and who reach the Matriculation standard of the College. But unless such a Candidate should offer himself the Scholarship will be open.

Candidates will be eligible for this Scholarship who have not exceeded the age of twenty years on December 11, 1894.

The Examination will consist of papers and practical work in Biology and Chemistry. Candidates will be examined in only one of these subjects. A paper in Elementary Mechanics and Physics will be set to all Candidates, and a paper in Elementary Chemistry to those Candidates who offer Biology.

Any inquiries about this examination may be addressed to Mr. W. Hatchett Jackson, Keble College.

An English Essay and questions in Divinity will be set to Candidates for all the Scholarships.

Pass papers of the Responsions standard will be set in Classics and Mathematics to Candidates for the Historical and Science Scholarships, except in the case of those who have already passed Responsions or some examination excusing them from Responsions.

The competition for all the Scholarships will be open to all persons not members of the University, and to such members of the University as are not of more than two Terms' standing from Matriculation. But no Candidate will be allowed to hold a Scholarship, unless he continue to read for the Honour course, or when out of residence, except by permission of the College. By the terms of the benefactions the Scholarships are tenable only by members of the Church of England.

All the Scholarships are tenable in the first instance for two years, but in the case of scholars whose conduct and industry are satisfactory, the tenure will be prolonged so as to cover the usual time of residence.

Candidates besides the scholars, who may distinguish themselves in the examination, will be offered admission, as Commoners, without being required to pass the ordinary Matriculation examination.

The examination for the Classical Scholarships will be held in common with St. John's College, and all Candidates will be considered as standing at both Colleges unless special notice is given to the contrary.

The necessary College expenses, against which the amount of the Scholarships is to be set, are £82 per annum. This payment includes board, lodging, rent of furnished rooms, tuition, University and College dues. The only necessary extras are light in the rooms, washing, and University fees. There are no payments for caution money or valuation.

EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE

SOCIETY.

Founded 1762.]

THE OLDEST MUTUAL LIFE OFFICE IN EXISTENCE.

THE Society, being purely Mutual, has no occasion to sacrifice part of the Policy-holders' profits in order to provide Shareholders with dividends; and, paying no commission to Solicitors or other Agents, commends itself to those who are able, without the assistance of an Agent, to form an opinion as to its merits.

The Directors are permitted to offer, as an illustration of the Society's operations, the striking case of THE LATE MASTER OF BALLIOL, who was assured with the Society. His policies, with their remarkable results, are detailed below:—

| Date of Policy. | Amount. | Total Premiums paid. | Claims paid, being the sum assured and added bonuses. |
|-----------------|------------|----------------------|---|
| 1844 ... | £1,000 ... | £1,022 ... | £2,910 ... |
| 1848 ... | 1,500 ... | 1,882 ... | 4,170 ... |
| 1849 ... | 1,500 ... | 1,926 ... | 4,057 ... |
| 1850 ... | 1,000 ... | 1,257 ... | 2,610 ... |
| Totals | £5,000 ... | £6,087 ... | £13,747 |

As stated above, the Society has no Agents, and allows no commission to persons introducing business. The following gentlemen, however, being members of the Society, kindly permit reference to themselves by members of the University wishing to obtain information as to the Society's terms:—

The Rev. Dr. BARTHOLOMEW PRICE, Master of Pembroke College.
W. B. GAMLEN, Esq., M.A., University Chest Office.
HORATIO SYMONDS, Esq., Beaumont Street.
HORACE HART, Esq., Controller of the University Press.

Full particulars of the Society will be sent on application to the Actuary at the Offices: Mansion House Street, London, E.C.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ADELAIDE.

HUGHES PROFESSORSHIP OF ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE AND MENTAL AND MORAL PHILOSOPHY.

APPLICATIONS for the above Professorship (vacant in consequence of the transfer of Professor Boulger to the Chair of Classics) will be received at the Office of the Agent-General for South Australia, 15 Victoria Street, Westminster, not later than the 1st of July next. Salary, £600 a year. Duties commence on the 1st of March, 1895.

Open to the Clergy and their Lay Relatives.
(For Qualifications see below.)

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.
6. Assured Members have therefore absolute security, with the prospect of the continuance of a high rate of Bonus.

Whole-Life and Endowment Assurances are granted at LOW PREMIUMS, with right of participation in profits.

The following are specimens of the Rates:—

| WHOLE-LIFE ASSURANCE. | | | | ENDOWMENT ASSURANCE. | | | | | | | | | |

Strong Financial Position.

Funds, £1,008,127. Income from Premiums and Interest, £86,551.
The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Large Bonuses to Policy Holders.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus.

Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

Next Division of Profits in June, 1895.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

A prospectus and proposal form may be obtained upon application to the Secretary in London, or to the Society's correspondent at Oxford, C. N. JACKSON, Esq., M.A., Hertford College.

Candidates must not have exceeded the age of 19 years on the day of election.

Exhibitions of such number and value (not exceeding £80) as the College may determine may also be awarded on this examination. There is no limit of age for the Exhibitions.

The Scholarships and Exhibitions will be awarded for proficiency in Classics, except that in the case of one Scholarship excellence in Mathematics may have weight. Besides the papers usually set in Classical Scholarship Examinations, there will be optional papers in Greek and Latin Verse and in translation from French and German. The Mathematical papers will also be optional. The examination, which will be held in common with Wadham College, will begin on Thursday, November 29, at 9.30 A.M., and will probably occupy four and a half days. Candidates will be considered as standing at both Colleges, unless special notice is given to the contrary. They will be required to state at which College they prefer to be elected.

Every Scholarship is tenable in the first instance for two years, and will be prolonged for two years more, if the President and Fellows are satisfied with the industry and good conduct of the Scholar. For special reasons it may be prolonged for a fifth year.

The Scholarships and Exhibitions are tenable by Candidates desiring to enter the Indian Civil Service.

Any Candidates for a Scholarship who may desire to enter their names for residence as Commoners in October, 1895, can be admitted on this examination in lieu of the ordinary entrance examination.

Candidates may on entering their names give notice to the President that they desire only the rights and privileges without the emoluments of a Scholar. If any such Candidate is elected to a Scholarship the College Statutes provide that he shall be regarded as an Honorary Scholar, the whole number of vacancies being filled up if suitable Candidates present themselves, as if no such Honorary Scholar had been elected.

Candidates are requested to call on the President on Wednesday, November 28, between 5 and 6, or 9 and 10 P.M., and to present testimonials of good conduct and certificates of the date of their birth.

WADHAM COLLEGE.1. ELECTION TO HODY SCHOLARSHIP.

2. WRIGHT EXHIBITION.

One of the EXHIBITIONS on the foundation of Mr. Philip Wright will be awarded, if a sufficiently qualified candidate presents himself, in December next.

Extract from the Regulations concerning Philip Wright's Exhibitions for Scholars of Manchester Grammar School.

"The Candidates for the Exhibitions shall be at the time of election, and shall have been for the two next preceding years at the least, scholars of the Grammar School at Manchester. The examination shall be in the Greek and Latin languages and literature, and in such other of the subjects recognized in the public examinations of the University as the electors shall think fit. The electors shall not be bound to elect a candidate with whose proficiency they are not satisfied."

The Exhibition is of the value of £50 a year, and is tenable for four years. It may be held, if the Warden and Fellows shall think fit, in conjunction with a scholarship or exhibition of the College. There is no limit of age.

Candidates may offer either Classics or Mathematics. But those who offer Mathematics will be required to show a knowledge of Classics at least sufficient to enable them to pass Responsions.

Candidates are requested to call on the Warden on Wednesday, November 28, at 5 P.M., with testimonials of good conduct, and evidence of their being, and having been for the two preceding years, scholars of the Manchester Grammar School.

The examination, which will be the same as that for the scholarships of the College, will begin in the College Hall on Thursday, November 29, at 9.30 A.M.

HERTFORD COLLEGE.SCHOLARSHIPS AND EXHIBITIONS, 1894.

There will be an Examination, commencing on Tuesday, November 13, for SIX SCHOLARSHIPS.

2. One Open Mathematical Scholarship, of the value of £100 per annum, and tenable for five years.

3. One Scholarship, limited in the first instance to persons educated for three years at Harrow School, of the value of £100 per annum, and tenable for five years.

4. One Scholarship, limited in the first instance to the kin of the Founder, of the value of £100 per annum, and tenable for five years.

All the above Scholarships are limited to members of the Church of England or of Ireland, or of the Protestant Episcopal Churches of Scotland, the British Colonies, or the United States of America.

Either of the Scholarships 3, 4, may be declared open pro hac vice, if there is no Candidate entitled to a preference, or none of sufficient merit for election. And either of them may be awarded for proficiency either in Classics or in Mathematics, but with a preference for the former.

The examination for the Classical Scholarships comprises Translation from Greek and Latin Authors; Greek and Latin Composition, Prose and Verse; Questions chiefly on Literature and History; and an Essay. An alternative may be provided for Candidates who decline Verse Composition.

The subjects in Mathematics are Algebra, the Theory of Equations, Plane Trigonometry, Pure and Analytical Geometry, and the Elements of Mechanics of Solids and Fluids. Candidates in Mathematics, unless they have passed Responsions or some equivalent examination, will also be required to exhibit such Classical knowledge as will give reasonable promise of their passing the University Examinations in due course.

Candidates for the Open Scholarships, if already members of the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, must not have exceeded two years from their Matriculation.

There is no limit of age for any of the Scholarships, but married persons are not eligible for election.

Candidates may announce their intention of standing by letter, addressed to the Senior Tutor and enclosing testimonials of good conduct from their respective Schools or Colleges, not later than November 6. SOCIETY.

THE OLDEST MUTUAL LIFE OFFICE IN EXISTENCE.

THE Society, being purely Mutual, has no occasion to sacrifice part of the Policy-holders' profits in order to provide Shareholders with dividends; and, paying no commission to Solicitors or other Agents, commends itself to those who are able, without the assistance of an Agent, to form an opinion as to its merits.

The Directors are permitted to offer, as an illustration of the Society's operations, the striking case of THE LATE MASTER OF BALLIOL, who was assured with the Society. His policies, with their remarkable results, are detailed below:—

| Date of Policy. | Amount. | Total Premiums paid. | Claims paid, being the sum assured and added bonuses. |
|-----------------|------------|----------------------|---|

| 1849 ... | 1,500 ... | 1,926 ... | 4,057 ... |
| 1850 ... | 1,000 ... | 1,257 ... | 2,610 ... |
| Totals | £5,000 ... | £6,087 ... | £13,747 |

As stated above, the Society has no Agents, and allows no commission to persons introducing business. The following gentlemen, however, being members of the Society, kindly permit reference to themselves by members of the University wishing to obtain information as to the Society's terms:—

The Rev. Dr. BARTHOLOMEW PRICE, Master of Pembroke College.

The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus. Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

DELEGATES OF THE UNIVERSITY
MUSEUM (FOR 1893).

SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE DELEGATES OF THE UNIVERSITY MUSEUM (FOR 1893).

THE Delegates of the University Museum present their Report for 1893 to the House of Convocation.

It comprises—

A. General Report.

B. Departmental Reports of Professors and Lecturers teaching within the Museum precincts. In these Reports are incorporated particulars of Donations and Purchases.

A. DELEGATES' GENERAL REPORT.

On June 8, Mr. Edward B. Poulton, M.A., Jesus College, was elected Hope Professor of Zoology, in place of the late Professor Westwood. The Delegates have since had under consideration a scheme of the Hope Curators and other proposals as to enlargement and re-arrangement of the space assigned to the Hope Professor, in view of the increase of the collections and the extended field of study coming within the range of his Department.

On October 14, the Vice-Chancellor presided at the opening of the new buildings of the Department of Human Anatomy, now in active occupation by a satisfactory number of students.

During previous years, Zoological Collections, partly transferred from the Ashmolean Museum and partly obtained since by donation or purchase, and occupying a portion of the central court, gallery, &c., have remained unassigned to any Professor, being held in charge by the Delegates, directly or through a Zoological Committee. In the present year the Delegates acceded to an application by Professors Lankester and Poulton for the assignment of these collections, together with a portion of the space occupied by them, to the Linacre and Hope Professors.

The Ashmolean Society held their ordinary meetings in the Museum, and a conversazione was given on November 20 by the President, Professor Poulton, F.R.S. The Junior Scientific Club met as usual in the Museum. The second annual Boyle Lecture was delivered on May 16 by Lord Kelvin, President of the Royal Society, on 'The Molecular Tactics of Crystals.' The Oxfordshire Natural History Society held their meetings in the Museum.

EDWARD B. TYLOR, Keeper.

B. PROFESSORS' REPORTS.

Report of the Regius Professor of Medicine.

In my Report last year I stated the general circumstances and arrangements of the small Department of the Museum under my charge.

These circumstances and arrangements are practically unchanged.

Mr. Marsh continues to use the 'Sanitary and Chemical' Laboratory for certain parts of the Materia Medica, and to employ the servant therein trained. Mr. Marsh has full use of the Materia Medica collections in the court and in the Professor's room. It is proposed to increase these collections as may be required, the small original grant for them not being yet expended. I am in communication with Mr. Marsh, Dr. Lauder Brunton, and others on this subject, because considerable additions are required for the proper teaching and illustration of modern Pharmacology.

Mr. Ritchie, B.M. Edinburgh, has used the bacterial and microscope room constantly throughout the year, on original work. He demonstrated therein at Easter on the Bacterial Collection and on his own researches to a large number of the teachers assembled at their Conference, by their desire and to their acknowledged satisfaction.

He is about now to take a practical class of University and other students for the Regius Professor, and for this purpose some additional outlay will be required from the grant made to me from the Common University Fund.

I may here repeat the desire often expressed to the Hebdomadal Council that extended arrangements may be made in this Department for advanced work related to modern Medicine, preventive, pathological, and curative.

HENRY W. ACLAND.

Report of the Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy.

A. MUSEUM COLLECTIONS.

In the year 1893 considerable progress was made in the preparation of specimens for exhibition in the court, and in the acquisition of valuable material of all classes. In Michaelmas Term the Delegates placed in my charge (with the exception of certain collections of the British fauna assigned to Professor Poulton) the zoological collections hitherto unassigned to any Professor.

The union of the general zoological collections with the collections illustrating comparative anatomy has enabled me to make a satisfactory plan for the arrangement of the specimens in the space at my disposal; and with the assistance of Mr. Goodrich of Merton College and Mr. Pycraft, I hope in the course of two or three years to carry out the suggestions made by Sir William Flower in his report to the Delegacy. The Professor of Geology is most kindly co-operating with me to this end, as also the Hope Professor, who contributes as far as possible to the completion of the general series in the court of the Museum, whilst himself taking charge of collections illustrating the British fauna, mimicry and special adaptations in addition to the invaluable Entomological collections which are his chief care.

I have specially to report valuable donations from the Trustees of the British Museum, from the National Museum of the United States of America, from the Indian Museum, Calcutta, and from several private donors; also the purchase of a cast of the skeleton of the gigantic Dinoceras belonging to an extinct group of mammals previously unrepresented in the collections.

At my suggestion Mr. Goodrich has made several preparations of a novel character, in which the cartilage associated with bone in the skeletons of vertebrata (e.g. the feet of the Crocodile, the skulls of Lizards, &c.) is represented by coloured wax. Such cartilage shrivels up and is lost in skeletons as usually prepared, and the method adopted of introducing wax pieces to represent it gives preparations which are of great value for educational purposes.

In connexion with his work on the collections, Mr. Goodrich has published an account of the fossil mammalian jaws in the Oxford Museum, which is included in the first volume of the Linacre Reports, issued by me in the beginning of 1894. I have been able to add one oolitic mammalian jaw—belonging to myself and now recovered after being mislaid for thirty years—to the six already in the collection, as well as specimens of the dentition of Polymastodon and Peritychus, given to me by Professor Cope of Philadelphia.

B. THE LABORATORIES AND LECTURE-ROOM.

During 1893, Mr. Bourne of New College, Mr. Minchin of Keble (now of Merton) College, Mr. Günther of Magdalen College, Dr. Benham, Mr. Goodrich, Mr. Bosanquet of New College, Miss Pollard, Miss Kirkaldy and Miss Gould have used the senior laboratory for original investigations, the results of some of which have been published in the scientific transactions and periodicals. The attendance of students on the courses of lectures and laboratory instruction has been as follows:—

JUNIOR CLASSES (Lectures and Laboratory Work).

Elementary Animal Morphology—Hilary Term, 1893, 16; Michaelmas Term, 1893, 29.

Embryology—Summer Term, 1893, 8.

ADVANCED CLASSES.

Laboratory—(H.) 5; (E.) 6; (M.) 6.

Prof. Lankester's Lectures—Arachnida (H.) 5; Protozoa, Rotifera, and Urochorda (E.) 6; Vertebrata (M.) 6.

Mr. Bourne's Lectures—Protoplasm, Fertilization and Phylogeny of Man and Mammals (H.) 10; Senses and Sense-organs of Animals (E.) 7; Anthozoa (M.) 5.

Dr. Benham's Lectures—Acanthocephala, &c. (E.) 6.

Mr. Minchin's Lectures—Echinoderms (H.) 5; Microscopical Technique (E.) 6.

The 'Seminarium' (senior undergraduates and graduates) has met me once a week in Term time at 5 o'clock, for the discussion of recently published memoirs.

Exclusive of the 'Seminarium,' the attendances for instruction in this department during the year 1893 amount to 8,339 hours, or a little more than the equivalent of the attendance of a class of 200 students on a course of two lectures a week for three terms.

Report of the Curator of the Pitt-Rivers Museum.

(Ethnographical Department.)

During the year 1893, the following series have been more or less systematically arranged in the court, and for the most part furnished with suitable labels:—Primitive Pottery, illustrating pottery hand-made without the use of the potter's wheel; the series of Burmese MSS. presented by Major R. C. Temple; series illustrating the early development of Writing, and writing-materials (this still lacks some important material, and cannot be yet brought to any state of completion); a very important series illustrating Magic and its appliances (new table cases were added for this series, which also occupies part of a wall-case); series of Lighting-appliances; series of pipes and other smoking-appliances; one illustrating some of the various ways of treating the Dead, bearing upon primitive ideas of the future state. A few small supplementary glass cases have been added in connexion with existing series. In the upper gallery a partial rearrangement of the Stone Implement series has been effected. A number of glazed drawers have been added underneath the table-cases in the two galleries. Numerous minor additions and arrangements have been made in various parts of the building. Numerous specimens have been received, mostly from various donors, a few by purchase, and a small number on deposit; of these a list appears below. The Curator began in the October term a course of lectures upon the various Arts of Mankind, as illustrated by the series in the collection.

HENRY BALFOUR.

Report of the Waynflete Professor of Physiology.

The number of students who attended the Physiological Laboratory during the year ending December 31, 1893, was sixty-three. Of these forty-one were preparing for the Final Examination in the Natural Science School, and six (of whom one was introduced by the Association for the Higher Education of Women) for the Preliminary Examinations in the same school. Fourteen others were Graduates in Arts who attended with a view to Examinations of the University in Medical Science. Two Graduates worked in the Laboratory without reference to any examination, and one student for examinations elsewhere.

Systematic lectures were given by the Professor and Dr. Haldane each Term on the subjects of the Final Examination; and on those of the Preliminary Examination in Hilary Term by Mr. Leonard Hill, B.M. (now Assistant Professor of Physiology in University College, London), and in Michaelmas Term by Mr. Pembrey, M.A., B.M.

In Trinity Term a sum of £300 was voted by Convocation for the purpose of 'providing additional accommodation, fittings, and apparatus, for students in the Department of Physiology.' The necessary works were completed during the Long Vacation. The temporary building erected some years ago for the accommodation of the Department of Human Anatomy, has been converted into a large working room for junior students of Physiology, and for practical instruction in Chemical Pharmacology. The University lecturer on the last mentioned subject has also been provided with a lecture-room in the same building. In the Physiological Laboratory, the two rooms facing the Park northwards on the upper floor have been united so as to form a spacious working room for students of Histology, which is sufficiently large to accommodate sixty students, each having a separate working place. The room also serves the purpose of a convenient place of meeting for the Junior Scientific Club.

Although the advancement of knowledge is held by the writer to be in a much higher sense the purpose which a University Professor ought to have in view than the preparation of students for Examinations, no reference has been made in previous Reports to the scientific work of the Laboratories. As, however, it has been suggested that some members of the University may desire to know whether anything or nothing is done in the way of 'research,' it is proposed in future to enumerate the papers published, and to refer very shortly to such work as was in progress during the year. The publications were, in the order of date, as follows:—

W. Ramsden, B.A., 'On the Proteids of Egg-white'; Proceedings of the Physiological Society, Dec. 10, Journal of Physiology, vol. xiv, 1893.

J. S. Haldane, Hon. M.A., and J. Lorrain Smith, B.M., 'Toxic Action of Expired Air'; Journal of Pathology, vol. i, p. 314.

M. S. Pembrey, M.A., B.M., 'On the reaction of Mammals to changes in the temperature of their surroundings'; Journal of Physiology, vol. xv, p. 40.

A. F. S. Kent, M.A., 'Researches on the Structure and Functions of the Mammalian Heart'; Journal of Physiology, vol. xiv, p. 233.

J. Lorrain Smith and M. S. Pembrey, 'The histological changes following on Thyroidectomy'; Proceedings of the Physiological Society, Nov. 11, loc. cit., vol. xv.

In addition, a more extended dissertation, by Dr. L. Smith, on 'The Physiology of the Thyroid,' founded on researches begun here in 1892 and continued at Cambridge after his appointment to the J. L. Walker Research Studentship, was presented by him in August 1893 as a Graduation Thesis to the Medical Faculty of the University of Edinburgh, who awarded to the author, in consideration of its scientific merits, a graduation medal.

The work in progress during the year was as follows:—Mr. Leonard Hill, B.M., conducted an elaborate experimental inquiry relating to the normal intracranial pressure and the conditions which affect it. The main results of the research have been communicated to the Royal Society, and will be shortly published in full in the Journal of Physiology. Mr. Pembrey has been engaged in researches on the influence of variations of temperature on the respiratory exchange, which are still in progress. Mr. Ramsden began an inquiry as to the conditions which determine the coagulation of certain albuminous compounds, which, since his election to the Radcliffe Travelling Fellowship, he has continued with good result in the Physiological Laboratory at Zürich. I have myself, with the valuable co-operation of Mr. Burch, pursued the investigations which have occupied me for several years as to the time-relations of the elementary processes in excitable tissues.

J. S. BURDON-SANDERSON.

Report of the Professor of Human Anatomy.

During the past year the department has been transferred from the iron shed in the Physiological yard to the new building abutting on the Pitt-Rivers Museum.

The opening ceremony was performed by the Rev. the Vice-Chancellor (the Principal of Hertford) on October 14, in the presence of a large and representative audience, including teachers and professors from most of the metropolitan and provincial medical schools¹.

It is satisfactory to know that the building has been completed for the sum originally estimated, and that no further grants will be necessary to pay off the expenditure involved in the construction of the fabric. The building has in all respects proved eminently satisfactory for the purposes for which it was designed, and all the experts on these matters who have seen it have been unanimous in their expressions of approval. Already several delegates from medical schools, to which extensions are being built, have visited it with the object of studying its arrangements and fittings.

Considerable progress has been made with the arrangement of the museum. Work of this sort is necessarily slow, as the preparation of specimens involves the expenditure of much time and labour. A considerable part of the sum voted for fittings is still unexpended, for I have thought it wiser not to proceed with the construction of cases until such time as I have the specimens to put in them. In this way the cases can be modified from time to time, in order to display to the best advantage the preparations it is proposed to exhibit.

Much of the balance of £200 with which the income of the department, accruing from fees, was credited on January 1, 1893, has been spent on the purchase of apparatus and specimens, many of which, including an osteological series illustrating the growth and development of the skeleton, are now displayed in the museum.

During Michaelmas Term I delivered a course of lectures on Physical Anthropology, in addition to the ordinary lectures in connexion with the work of the department; these form part of a course of lectures on Anthropology at present being delivered by Dr. Tylor and Mr. Balfour. The attendance, which averaged 16, is sufficient to justify the hope that the extension of teaching in this direction may prove acceptable to members of the University.

On December 8, Dr. Sims Woodhead, Director of the Research Laboratories of the Royal Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons, London, delivered a lecture in the Anatomical theatre on the 'Bacillus of Cholera' to the members of the Oxford Medical Society.

During Hilary and Easter and Trinity Terms Messrs. Arthur Cooke, B.A., New College, and E. S. Savage, B.A.,

Christ Church, acted as Demonstrators, and in Michaelmas Term Mr. Gabriel Farmer, B.M., Balliol College, undertook the duties of Assistant. The average terminal attendance during the year was thirty-five.

Mr. Charles Robertson continues to add to the preparations in the museum, a list of which is appended.

ARTHUR THOMSON.

Report of the Hope Professor of Zoology.

Early in January the department lost the first occupant of the Hope Chair, by the death of Professor Westwood, the most distinguished systematic entomologist who has ever lived.

During the succeeding six months, the department was under the charge of Mr. W. Hatchett Jackson, one of the Hope Curators. During this period a very useful general catalogue of the contents of the cabinets was made, and the Hope Library was laboriously searched in order to separate those books, periodicals, and papers, which were the property of the late Professor. These have been subsequently purchased by the Curators for the Hope Library. Mr. Shipp assisted in preparing the catalogue, and later on was occupied in making a list of Chalcididae, a group in which the Hope Collections are very rich.

On June 8, the department passed into my care. A very experienced entomologist and naturalist, Mr. W. Holland of Reading, was appointed assistant. Mr. Shipp caught typhoid fever during his summer holiday and was ill for many weeks. After his recovery he began to arrange the general collection of Coleoptera, introducing labels to show the geographical distribution of species and genera. At the end of the year he left Oxford.

A preliminary examination and classification of the Hope Library was made by Mr. Holland under my directions. The limited space at present available for books rendered it impossible to complete the arrangement.

Dr. F. A. Dixey has studied the Pieridae in the Hope Collections, in the preparation of an important memoir upon the evolution of the wing-markings in this group of Lepidoptera. I suggested that the arrangement and consolidation of the Pieridae scattered through the Hope Collections would assist the investigation, and at the same time benefit our collections. This most useful work has been carried out and is now nearly finished. Not only are the Pieridae arranged as a single series, but the names are being carefully considered and when necessary revised, while coloured labels indicating the geographical distribution are being affixed to the species and genera. At the same time Mr. Holland has reset, repinned, and adjusted the specimens which require such treatment. When arranged in new cabinets (which are urgently required for the Eastern Heterocera classified by Colonel Swinhoe as well as for the Pieridae), these Pieridae will constitute a reference collection of which the University may be proud and for which a debt of gratitude is owing to Dr. Dixey.

A preliminary examination of many of the marine Invertebrates in the Hope Collections was made by Mr. Garstang, many of the specimens being referred to Prof. Lankester. It was found that the majority of the specimens were worthless, inasmuch as the same species can easily be obtained in a far better state of preservation. Some few specimens, however, were of decided interest.

In the Long Vacation extensive experiments on the modification of the colours of larvae by means of their surroundings were carried out in the Mathematical Lecture Room adjoining the Hope Department. It was for the first time proved that certain species respond to the presence of lichen on the branches intermixed with their food, by the development of green or grey lichen-like markings upon the surface of the body, which is itself coloured and shaped so as closely to resemble a branch or part of a branch.

In the time that could be spared from these experiments Mr. Holland arranged and classified the Rhopalocerous Groups Danaïs, Euploea, and Hestia. Colonel Swinhoe kindly assisted and advised in this work, and constant reference was made to his very complete collection of Oriental Lepidoptera.

Colonel Swinhoe has continued his valuable work upon the catalogue of Oriental Heterocera in the Hope Collections. The Pyrales are now nearly finished, and when the Noctuae, which are not very numerous, are also catalogued, the second volume will be issued. When the insects have been arranged and clearly labelled in suitable cabinets, and the specimens that require it have been reset or otherwise readjusted, the Oriental Heterocera will constitute a most valuable reference collection exceedingly rich in types which will command the attention of all systematic Lepidopterists.

A simple system of labelling has been devised, whereby any of the existing Hope specimens which are in any way altered or adjusted, can be easily identified on a special register, which gives the date and nature of the adjustment. In this manner the most improved methods of manipulation and display can be safely adopted in the case of our older specimens without appearing to endanger their authenticity.

In Michaelmas Term lectures upon 'Means of Defence in the Struggle for Existence' were given twice a week in the adjoining Mathematical Lecture Room. They were attended by the advanced and some of the junior students of the Linacre Professor, and by other persons.

A small oxy-hydrogen lantern and screen were purchased for the department and were indispensable for the lectures. Great inconvenience and loss of time were experienced, and some injury was done, in setting up lantern and screen for every lecture and clearing them away afterwards. A lecture room with lantern and screen permanently fixed is urgently needed by the department. Such a room could also be utilized for the Hope Library.

During the Christmas Vacation, the Rev. F. D. Morice (Queen's College) being in Oxford, I asked him kindly to assist in the revision and arrangement of our collection of British bees, a subject on which he is so distinguished an authority. Fortunately the weather was then mild, and it was just possible to work, although with great discomfort, in the Hope Museum, where light is only available in positions in which the heat of the fire is imperceptible. An excellent beginning was made, and I much hope that Mr. Morice may be able to complete the arrangement, and that the department may soon be able to offer more favourable conditions for research.

At the same time Mr. Arthur Sidgwick began a preliminary examination of the three distinct collections of British Lepidoptera now in the department, with a view to the incorporation of two of them in the third, the Spilsbury Collection, which is by far the most complete.

During the Long Vacation a scheme for enlarging and improving the department was devised. The pressing needs of the department as regards space are—(1) increased space for the Collections; (2) increased space for the Library; (3) a private room for work on the Collections; (4) a lecture room (which could be combined with Library); (5) a Laboratory for Zoological research; (6) a Professor's room. Furthermore an improved method of heating is imperatively necessary for the welfare of the collections, and of those who work on them in winter. New cabinets are also urgently required. It was shown that all the accommodation required could be obtained if it were possible to extend into the rooms now occupied by the Mathematical Professors. This scheme was brought before the Hope Curators at the beginning of Michaelmas Term, was adopted by them and passed on to the Delegates of the Museum. The Delegates appointed a committee to examine the scheme and subsequently adopted, and forwarded to Council, the favourable report of the committee. This scheme is now under the consideration of Council.

The following additions and donations to the Hope Collections were made during the year:—

Donations:

- A number of Indian Lepidoptera Rhopalocera and Coleoptera, presented by Mr. E. A. Minchin.
- Lepidoptera from Tenerife, Grand Canary, and Madeira, captured in 1888 by Prof. Poulton and presented by him.
- Lepidoptera Rhopalocera from South America, captured and presented by Mr. O. V. Aplin.
- Oriental Lepidoptera Heterocera, presented by Colonel Swinhoe.
- Nest and eggs of the Marsh Warbler, presented by Mr. W. W. Fowler.

Purchases:

- A few Pieridae, to supply important deficiencies in the series; purchased from Messrs. Watkins and Doncaster.
- Lepidoptera Rhopalocera from Thibet and Western China, purchased from Mr. A. E. Pratt.

EDWARD B. POULTON.

Report of the Professor of Experimental Philosophy.

During the year 1893 thirty-one members of the University received systematic instruction in practical Physics in the Clarendon Laboratory, and five ladies were also admitted as students. Fourteen members of the University and one lady were working with the object of becoming candidates for Honours in the School of Natural Science, and the other students were preparing for the Preliminary Examination.

The number of students engaged in the Laboratory during the respective Terms was as follows:—

Hilary Term—Eight for Honours, twelve for Preliminary;
Easter Term—Eight for Honours, ten for Preliminary;
Michaelmas Term—Nine for Honours, seven for Preliminary.

Mr. J. Walker, M.A., and Mr. S. A. F. White, B.A., continued to act as Demonstrators during the year.

The statutable lectures of the Professor of Experimental Philosophy were devoted to certain parts of the study of Electricity, principally to an investigation of the electric phenomena attending the contact of different substances, to a discussion of propositions connected with electric potential, and to a description of the construction and action of electrometers. Additional lectures were also given on some optical properties of crystals. Mr. White delivered a course of lectures on elementary Mechanics and Physics, designed to assist students in acquiring the knowledge of practical Physics required for the Preliminary Examination.

During the year several students applied for instruction of a practical character in Electricity, and it is much to be regretted that the limited accommodation in the laboratory rendered it impossible to comply with their request. All the rooms are now in constant use, and there is no place in which the apparatus required for a course of practical instruction in Electricity can be properly set up.

R. B. CLIFTON.

Report of the Waynflete Professor of Chemistry.

The customary lectures were delivered during the year: the Waynflete Professor lectured on the Chemistry of Sugars and Indigo, &c.; the Aldrichian Demonstrator delivered a course of lectures on Inorganic Chemistry for students reading for the Preliminary Examination; Mr. Watts lectured on Organic Chemistry, and Mr. Veley on Physical Chemistry. Mr. Marsh also lectured in Michaelmas Term on The History of Chemical Theory, and Mr. J. A. Gardner on Aromatic Compounds. Mr. C. H. Walker and Mr. W. H. Lewis assisted in preparing experimental illustrations of the lectures.

The Laboratories were more fully occupied than in any former year, and the total number of individuals who attended in preparation for various examinations was 129, of whom 70 worked in Hilary Term, 83 in Easter Term, and 78 in Michaelmas Term. Fifty of the entire number are reading for the Final Honour Schools. The Examinations in the Preliminary Chemistry and in the Final Honour Schools were held in the Laboratory, and also those in Organic Chemistry and Materia Medica for the First B.M. Examination.

No important additions to the appliances or apparatus have been made during the year, but a considerable quantity of chemicals and apparatus have been purchased to maintain the stock, and provide for the wants of the increased numbers of students working and examined.

During part of the Long Vacation a course of instruction was given by Mr. Marsh, under the Delegacy for the Extension of University Teaching, which was attended by twenty-eight County Council Students from Oxfordshire and Kent.

A special class for instruction and practice in Glass-blowing was formed by Herr F. Zitzmann in Michaelmas Term, and was attended by a number of the senior men working in the Laboratory, the Demonstrators, and several graduate members of the University.

W. ODLING.

Report of the Professor of Geology.

Lectures have been given on Physical and Stratigraphical Geology, on Field-geology and the practical applications of Geology; and geological excursions have been conducted, preceded in each case by a lecture explaining the geology of the district visited. These have been attended by twenty students.

Five students have received advanced instruction in Petrology and Palaeontology.

The fittings of the new geological laboratory are all but complete, and advanced teaching can now be carried on in comfort and with greater thoroughness than heretofore.

A large portion of the rocks and minerals belonging to the Department has been sorted and classified. The duplicates have been put aside for exchange or distribution. A series of typical rock-specimens suitable for exhibition has been selected to be placed in the Museum, which will soon possess for the first time a rock-collection systematically arranged and illustrated by explanatory labels. The remainder have been transferred to the laboratory to be used for advanced teaching.

Rearrangement of the fossils is urgently needed, and it is hoped that it may be begun shortly. It will be a long and heavy piece of work, and skilled assistance will be absolutely necessary to carry it out successfully.

The following donations have been received—

Specimen of Nautilus hexagonus, from A. R. Bell, Esq., M.A., Balliol College.

Specimen of Inoceramus ventricosus, from Mr. Kay, Charlbury.

Specimen of Blende from Missouri, from P. Elford, Esq., St. John's College.

Arca from Oxford Clay, from Mr. Banbery, Eynsham.

Kieselguhr, Breslau, from H. G. Madan, Esq., Bearland House, Gloucester.

A. H. GREEN.

Report of the Professor of Mineralogy.

The additions to the Mineral Collection during the past year have been—

1. Very fine clear crystals and a crystalline plate of Gypsum from Wayne Co., Utah, U.S.A., presented by Dr. J. E. Talmage, F.R.M.S., of Salt Lake City.

2. A collection of above 700 specimens of minerals, including some good crystallized Calcites, Fluors, Quartz, and some of the Phosphates and Arseniates from Cornwall that are rarely met with in recent times, presented by L. Cust, Esq., 99 Onslow Square, London.

3. Some specimens of minerals presented by myself as illustrating species or localities either not at all or very inadequately represented in the collection. Among these are a Binnite and Anatase from Brunnenthal, Apatite (rose-tint) from the Grisons, a Scheelite from Guttannen, and a Rubellite from California.

N.B. I am taking in hand, this next Term, the rearrangement of the Mineral Collection.

Note.—The Hon. Sir Walter T. Wragg was an Exhibitioner of Lincoln College and a Scholar of Worcester College; he obtained a First Class in Law and History in 1867, and took the degree of M.A. in 1888. After serving for some time as Police Magistrate and District Judge in Ceylon, he was appointed to the Supreme Court of Natal, and he is now senior Puisne Judge of that Court. Mr. Justice Wragg received the thanks of the Colonial Secretary for his services as President of a Commission to inquire into Indian Immigration Laws, and the thanks of Her Majesty's Government for his services as President of the Special Commission appointed to try the Zulu Chiefs concerned in rebellion. The Hebdomadal Council is of opinion that these facts justify the University in dispensing with the ordinary exercises for the degrees of Bachelor and Doctor in Civil Law; and in this opinion the Faculty Board of Law has concurred.

I. CONVOCATION.

1. Presentation of Report.

The following Annual Report of the Visitors of the University Observatory for 1893 will be presented to the House:—

The Visitors, having received the following Report from the Savilian Professor of Astronomy and approved the same, present it to Convocation as their Report on the University Observatory for the year 1893:

The Report here presented refers to the period from December 19, 1893, when I took over the charge of the University Observatory from the Radcliffe Observer, to June 9, 1894, and exhibits the state of the Observatory on the last-named day.

I. Buildings and Grounds. The boiler for the heating apparatus referred to by the Radcliffe Observer in his Report of July, 1893, was substituted for the old worn-out boiler in November, 1893, and has proved efficient during the past winter.

The difficulty of moving the large Dome became greater and greater during the last months of 1893; and, on January 11, 1894, a representative of Mr. Hammersley's came to Oxford to consult as to the best means of remedying the fault. It was thought advisable to substitute a cog-wheel and rack-work for the present apparatus for turning the Dome, and the estimate for this work (£48) was approved by the Curators of the University Chest as an ordinary repair to buildings on January 27, 1894. After considerable delay the work was satisfactorily completed on June 8, and the Dome can now be turned in any azimuth with great ease.

There being no lavatory in the building, the small glass-roofed enclosure previously used as a fernery has been converted into a lavatory.

As it appeared from marks on the wall in the lecture-room that the roof must in some way have admitted the wet, the roof was examined, and it was found that some damage to the leads had been done by the nails used in erecting the old Students' Observatory on the roof; and that the weight of this building had affected the incline arranged to carry off the water, which consequently formed in pools instead of running away. As the building has been for some time abandoned as an observing station, Mullis was directed to remove it; the materials have been found useful in flooring the lavatory above-mentioned.

The two domes will be painted as usual during the summer.

II. Library and Movable Property. The Library has been thoroughly examined and catalogued, and several books belonging to the Savile collection have been returned to the Bodleian Library. I understand from the Librarian that these books had been for some time recorded as "missing."

The books belonging to the late Professor Pritchard were examined, and some 87 of them, being found to be such as would be thoroughly useful in the Observatory, have been purchased from the executors at a cost of £10 10s. 6d.

The remainder included several Astronomical and scientific works of great value, such as a nearly complete set of the Philosophical Transactions, for many years back; but I did not feel, that with other large libraries so near at hand, the slender resources of the Observatory would admit of further purchases.

All bound books in the Library have been labelled and stamped. A re-arrangement of the Library will shortly be undertaken, and it seems advisable to spend some money in binding.

III. Instruments. The De La Rue Astrographic Telescope is in good order, but the immovability of the Dome has interrupted work with it in recent months. The object-glasses of both this telescope and the 12 $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch Refractor were in need of cleaning, the latter seriously; and Sir Howard Grubb's representative accordingly came to the Observatory on March 7 and cleaned them. Owing to the repairs to the Dome not being completed, and to bad weather, it has not been possible hitherto to test the performance of these object-glasses since the cleaning.

The mechanism of the De La Rue 13-inch Reflector was found to have received a severe blow or strain, which has carried away some of the teeth. The damaged portions were sent to Messrs. Troughton and Simms on January 31, 1894, and new parts were made by them. The instrument is now in good working order.

A number of small repairs and additions to the Barclay Transit Circle have been found necessary, and some of these are not yet completed. But the instrument will, it is hoped, soon be thoroughly efficient. It has been used nearly continuously for the determination of time, though under considerable difficulties.

As regards the smaller instruments, it is with gratitude that I have to record the gift to the Observatory by the late Professor Pritchard of several valuable instruments which will be of great use in the Students' Observatory. This gift was really made many years ago, but he appears not to have made it known in his Reports: indeed, the only evidence of the valuable gift was a memorandum in his handwriting among the Observatory papers. His executors and family, however, immediately confirmed the presentation; and I am happy to think that the Observatory will thus retain permanently an instance of the late Professor's liberality in concrete form.

Some other instruments belonging to him and not included in the presentation, have been purchased from the executors; the most important being a good clock by Messrs. T. Cooke and Sons, and a chronometer by Dent, No. 2390.

IV. Observations and Reductions. As above mentioned the regular work on the Astrographic Chart has been interrupted lately by the impossibility of moving the Dome. A few photographs have, however, been taken as far as the shutter opening would allow. The total number of Catalogue Plates obtained up to the date of this Report is 337. No Chart Plates have yet been taken, but 177 plates for miscellaneous purposes, including 70 of the Pleiades, have also been obtained.

It has been decided by the Astronomer Royal and myself to measure these plates by placing a small scale in the eye-piece of a microscope, and thereby measuring the position of a star-image in any square of the réseau without the use of a micrometer-screw. A satisfactory scale has been constructed by Messrs. Troughton and Simms for the Royal Observatory, but the final one for this Observatory has not yet been received. It is hoped, however, that the experimental stage in this work which has occupied considerable time is now nearly passed, and that the systematic measurement of the plates will be begun very shortly.

Meanwhile the measures on three plates of the Pleiades have been completely reduced by the method of rectangular co-ordinates recently suggested by me ("Monthly Notices of the Royal Astronomical Society," vol. liv, page 11) and the results were communicated to that Society on June 8.

V. Lectures. An Inaugural Lecture, on the International Photographic Chart of the Heavens, was delivered in the New Schools on February 23, 1894.

A course of Lectures by the Savilian Professor on Elementary Astronomy (definitely for the Mathematical Schools) was announced for the Trinity Term, and 21 students entered their names, the average attendance being 16. Arrangements were made by which it was hoped that all these students might see the general methods of observing at night on at least one occasion; but the wretched weather of the past few weeks made it impossible to carry out this programme completely. It is proposed to commence next October a two-term course of such lectures.

As regards more advanced work in Astronomy, I feel bound to point out that the present position of the science in the University curriculum is unsatisfactory.

Practical Astronomy only appears in the schedule of subjects which may be taken in addition to those necessary for the Final Science Schools; and it thus requires some courage on the part of a student with limited time at his disposal to thus add to his already serious responsibilities. In fact I believe that as yet no student has had this courage. I hope it is not too early to draw the attention of the Board to a matter so nearly concerning the efficiency of the University Observatory as an educational institution. The experience of a single Term is of course slight; but it has been sufficient to show me that an encouraging number of students are ready to take a genuine interest in Astronomy, if utilitarian considerations are not too strongly opposed to such a course.

The Observatory has been open to members of the University on week-days during Term time from 10 to 4; and many inquiries of various kinds answered by letter or personal interview. The demands thus made on the time of the Professor and staff are by no means insignificant; but this work is regarded as not the least important part of the work of the Observatory.

VI. Personal Establishment. Mr. F. A. Bellamy was appointed Assistant on September 1, 1892, and has performed his duties, including the general superintendence of the Observatory in my absence, to my satisfaction.

Mr. F. W. A. Bonnett was appointed Second Assistant on July 1, 1893, on terms which are a little exceptional, but which, after careful consideration, I see no reason to modify.

A skilled mechanic, Mr. John Mullis, completes the permanent staff of the Observatory, in which for the present I propose no change.

A clerk has been employed temporarily for a few weeks to assist in labelling the books in the Library and in other pressing matters.

2. Presentation of Report.

The following Annual Report of the Curators of the Schools for the year 1893 will be presented to the House:—

In addition to their ordinary use for the Examinations of the University, the Schools, by the permission of the Curators, were used during the year 1893—

CRAVEN FOUNDATION.

I. CRAVEN FELLOWSHIP, 1894.

The Electors to the Craven University Fellowships give notice that an election to one Fellowship will be held in the ensuing Michaelmas Term.

The conditions of eligibility to and tenure of the Fellowships are regulated by the following clauses of the Statute now sanctioned by the Court of Chancery:—

“The Fellowships shall be open to all who shall have passed the Examinations required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts and who shall not have exceeded the twenty-eighth Term from their matriculation. They shall be of the annual value of £200, and shall be tenable for two years.

“One Fellow shall be elected annually in Michaelmas Term by a Committee of five persons appointed for the purpose by the Board of the Faculty of Arts (Literæ Humaniores). The Committee shall have power to elect either without examination or after such examination in Greek and Latin literature, history and antiquities, or in some part of these subjects, as they shall think fit.

“Each Fellow shall enter on his Fellowship on the first of January following his election. He shall be required as a condition of his becoming entitled to the emoluments of his Fellowship to spend at least eight months of each of the two years of his tenure thereof in residence abroad for the purpose of study at some place or places approved by the electing Committee. But the electing Committee shall have power to allow such residence to be postponed for any period not exceeding six months, and to authorise the payment of such part of the emoluments as they shall think reasonable to a Fellow who shall have failed to complete his period of residence. The electing Committee may require the Fellow to produce such evidence of diligence in the prosecution of his study as they shall think expedient.”

(For Qualifications see below.)

This Society, conducted entirely on the Mutual Principle, offers the Absolute Security of an Accumulated Fund of £3,767,046, and an Annual Income of £383,152.

Attention is directed to the following Special features:—

1. The Annual Premiums charged are below the average, this fact being equivalent to an immediate Bonus.
2. The Expenses of Management are on a remarkably Low Scale, No Agents being employed or Commission paid for the introduction of business. Large sums are thus saved to the Assured Members.
3. The Rate of Mortality among the Members is very much lower than among the general population.
4. The combination of the above favourable circumstances has resulted in the return of exceptionally large Bonuses to the Assured Members. The Bonus declared for the five years ending May 31, 1891, amounted to £517,000, making the total Bonuses distributed now amount to £2,622,812.
5. The Reserves for the Society's Liabilities have been estimated on the most stringent basis employed by any Insurance Institution in the United Kingdom. Participating life assurances have been valued by the combined Institute of Actuaries' HM and HM(5) Tables, with interest at the rate of 2½ per cent. per annum, credit being taken only for the net premiums according to the HM Table.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.
Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus.

2. DEAN MANSEL EXHIBITION.

An Election to this Exhibition will be held on Friday, October 12.

The Exhibition is of the annual value of £40, and tenable (for four years) during residence. The successful Candidate, if not already a member of the College, will be required to enter upon residence at St. John's College immediately after election.

The Examination will begin on Tuesday, October 9, at 9.30 A.M., and the subjects will include—(1) The Old Testament; (2) Hebrew; (3) The New Testament in Greek; (4) Church History till A.D. 600; (5) The Articles, I–V.

Names should be sent in to the President before October 1. Candidates must be members of the Church of England or of a Church in full communion with the same.

WORCESTER COLLEGE.1. ELECTION OF ORGANIST.

RICHARD OWEN BEACHCROFT, of Rugby School, has been elected Organist at this College.

2. CLOSE SCHOLARSHIP.

There will be an Election at this College on December 3, to ONE SCHOLARSHIP, on the foundation of Sir Thomas Cookes, confined to Candidates who "have been, for two out of the three years next preceding the day of election, educated at the Grammar School of King Edward the Sixth at Bromsgrove," and whose age "does not exceed nineteen years on the day of election."

The examination will begin on Tuesday, November 27, at 9.30 A.M. Any intending Candidate must communicate, by letter or otherwise, with the Provost, not later than November 20, and must produce, before the commencement of the examination, (a) evidence of his being duly qualified to become a Candidate, and (b) certificates of good conduct and character.

The Scholarship is of the annual value of £60, inclusive of all allowances. But the College has the power "to raise the value from time to time to a sum not exceeding £80." The tenure is in the first instance for two years, but in the case of a Scholar whose conduct and industry are satisfactory this term will be prolonged to four years, to which for special reasons a fifth may be added.

The tenure of the Scholarship is subject to the condition that the holder does not accept or retain any appointment which in the judgment of the Electors will interfere with his University studies.

The examination will be in Classics. Passages for Latin and Greek Verse Composition will be set; but merit in other parts of the work will be taken to compensate for the omission of either or both of these subjects.

Strong Financial Position.

Funds, £1,023,383. Income from Premiums and Interest, £89,386. The Assurance Fund is over twenty years' purchase of the Annual Premiums under policies in force, an exceptional condition of stability and security.

Large Bonuses to Policy Holders.

Every five years a valuation of all the contracts and property of the Society is made for the purpose of making reserves and distributing the surplus to the participating policy holders.

Policy holders on the with-profit scale take nine-tenths of the profits.

The additions to Policies for over sixty years have been at the average rate of 2 per cent. per annum, which is above the average of other offices.

The Bonuses declared in 1885 and 1890 amounted (on each occasion) to 2½ per cent. per annum for the Five Years, or £125 Reversionary Bonus added to the Policy for each £1000 assured on the ordinary whole-life scale, with profits.

Bonus additions may at any time at the option of the Policy holder be exchanged for their cash value or for an equivalent reduction of future premium.

Intermediate bonuses are paid in case of death between two divisions of surplus. Life Assurance for a very small outlay under the specially-reduced with-profit scale of premiums of this Society.

Liberal Conditions.

Claims are paid immediately upon proof of Death and Title, and no Claim has ever been disputed.

The conditions as to non-forfeiture and foreign travel and residence are extremely liberal, and in accordance with modern practice.

A prospectus and proposal form may be obtained upon application to the Secretary in London, or to the Society's correspondent at Oxford, C. N. JACKSON, Esq., M.A., Hertford College.

EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE

Founded 1762.]

SOCIETY.

THE OLDEST MUTUAL LIFE OFFICE IN EXISTENCE.

THE Society, being purely Mutual, has no occasion to sacrifice part of the Policy-holders' profits in order to provide Shareholders with dividends; and, paying no commission to Solicitors or other Agents, commends itself to those who are able, without the assistance of an Agent, to form an opinion as to its merits.

The Directors are permitted to offer, as an illustration of the Society's operations, the striking case of THE LATE MASTER OF BALLIOL, who was assured with the Society. His policies, with their remarkable results, are detailed below:—

| Date of Policy. | Amount. | Total Premiums paid. | Claims paid, being the sum assured and added bonuses. |
|-----------------|---------|----------------------|---|
| 1844 ... | £1,000 | £1,022 | £2,910 |
| 1848 ... | 1,500 | 1,882 | 4,170 |
| 1849 ... | 1,500 | 1,926 | 4,057 |
| 1850 ... | 1,000 | 1,257 | 2,610 |
| Totals | £5,000 | £6,087 | £13,747 |

As stated above, the Society has no Agents, and allows no commission to persons introducing business. The following gentlemen, however, being members of the Society, kindly permit reference to themselves by members of the University wishing to obtain information as to the Society's terms:—

The Rev. Dr. BARTHOLOMEW PRICE, Master of Pembroke College.
W. B. GAMLEN, Esq., M.A., University Chest Office.
HORATIO SYMONDS, Esq., Beaumont Street.
HORACE HART, Esq., Controller of the University Press.

Full particulars of the Society will be sent on application to the Actuary at the Offices: Mansion House Street, London, E.C.
